"It's like a book, I think, this blooming world, which you can read and care for just so long, but presently you feel that you will die. Unless you get the page you're reading done, and turn another—likely not so good; but what you're after is to turn 'em all."

Judging by the statistics from the Pennsylvania auction Joe Grundy wasn't Senator Pepper's angel at all—his visits to the cash box were not "few and far between."

The mercury climbs fit to split, this hot spell is a hummer. A nifty record you'll admit for the "year without a summer."

Senator Borah, getting the cart before the horse, says that the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments are not precedents for the nullification of the Eighteenth, but what sort of a precedent is the enforcement of the Eighteenth?

"I don't want to play in your yard, I don't like you any more, you'll be sorry when you see me. Stiding down our cellar door."

Brazil backs out of the League of Nations, which proves as Uncle Sam would say, that foresight is better than hindsight.

One gathers that as yet the people of Haiti couldn't be any less fitted for self-government if they lived in Pennsylvania.

Up until 1832 our candidates were nominated by party caucuses, and that system was bawled out as being corrupt; and after that year they were nominated by conventions, and they were bawled out for being corrupt; and then we had the direct primary, and now that sacred institution of reform is being bawled out for being corrupt, and if we should now have our candidates nominated by a committee of real angels, instead of "heavy sugar babies," with fake wings, they'd get bawled out too—the people are always ready to blame anything but themselves. The truth of the matter is that if an electorate want to be debauched any old system will do, but as the answer to that is that democracy is a failure we keep right on rationalizing about it.

If Truman H. Newberry lived in Pennsylvania he'd go broke trying to be elected town constable.

Frank Hogan hands Mr. Fenning a highly polished halo.

The other side of the Keystone picture is faithfully painted by Secretary Mellon—in changing the Senate from an aristocratic to a thoroughly plebeian body the Seventeenth amendment has given the voters of a State a choice between a demagogue and somebody rich enough to beat him.

New Jersey gentleman is kidnapped at the altar and thrown into the insane asylum, and if this sort of thing is going to continue during the balance of June there won't be too many hatches enough in the country.

A gas and chemical explosion at Gary wrecks a building two blocks long, fills the air with coal tar, acids and flaming creosote, and takes an appalling toll of human life. Modern science hasn't much to learn from the volcano and earthquake.

Great Britain gives Soviet Russia a slight slap on the wrist.

The Mennonites have about decided to permit their young women to bob their hair, but isn't this carrying the mania for minimizing feminine charm a trifle too far?

New Jersey will hold her primaries today and it is expected that everything will go off swimmingly.

"It beareth the name of Vanity Fair, because the town where it is kept is 'lighter than vanity.'" The big show opens in England, the gorgeous week, that takes one back to King Charles' wastrel days. Still, the Ascot race meet doesn't cost much more than a general strike.

Henry Ford receives an honorary degree from the University of Michigan, which proves that you can believe the earth is flat and still be an educated man.

If any more alligators are found in the Potomac it won't be a week before the Florida promoters are selling villa sites on the James Creek canal.

Here's a cheerful item—the funeral directors will hold their convention in Washington.

"More work for the undertakers, a little more work for the cash-makers."

Bill Vare raises the ante.

VARE FUND $596,410, ELECTION EXPENSE TOTAL IS $1,837,410

GRUNDY GAVE SUMS ALMOST EVERY DAY

Pepper Ticket Treasurer Says 'Angel' Produced $614,134 for Committee.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The climax came in the Senate subcommittee's inquiry into Pennsylvania primary campaign expenses last night when testimony from the managers of Representative Vare gave $596,410.72 as the Vare-Beldeman-James-Woodward ticket expenses and thereby raised the grand total to $1,837,410.72.

This, with smaller sums yet to be heard from, means that approximately $2,000,000 will be recorded by the subcommittee, which is now regarded as having covered the high spots in its investigation. The Pepper coalition ticket tops the list so far with $1,046,000 expended, with the Vare coalition ticket second with a total of $596,410.72, and Gov. Pinchot's independent candidacy equalling the Newberry record of $195,000.

Besides providing the new total, last night's session, which lasted until 11:15 o'clock, was by far the most stirring and spectacular so far held. Representative Vare took the stand and besides making an excellent impression, he appeared to get on most harmoniously with the committee until the last 20 minutes, when Senators King and Reed subjected him to the most grueling and savage sort of examination.

Responsible for $71,000. The only apparent reason for this sudden effort of the two senators to be severe with Mr. Vare was the fact that the latter assumed responsibility only for the $71,000 he had expended personally and professed considerable ignorance about the money raised by the Vare coalition management. This was the position which Senator Pepper took when he disclaimed knowledge of all but $125,000 he had spent through his independent committee.

Vare is the successful candidate and if the committee accepts the version that his campaign cost only $71,000 much ammunition might later be lost in case future developments seek to make his campaign expenditure a record breaking one. Accordingly, the two Democratic members of the committee did not relish Mr. Vare's reluctance to admit that he knew about the $525,000 expended in addition to the $71,000 which Vare spent out of his own pocket.

Vare Cool Under Questioning

The savage examination by Senator King, who stood before Mr. Vare with flashing eyes and vainly sought to break his testimony, was of no avail. The coolness of Representative Vare under the circumstances was in marked contrast to the evidences of high temper shown by his questioners.

Prior to this Mr. Vare had brought in his testimony under the most favorable circumstances. The treasurer of the Republican campaign committee, Thomas F. Watson, had told the committee frankly about the $484,754.72 he had raised during the campaign for the coalition ticket. He had books and

Business Since January 1 Greatest in U. S. History

Gain of About 2 Per Cent in First Half of Year Sets New Record, as Indicated by Volume of Freight Carried.

By WILLIAM P. HELM, JR.

Total volume of business done throughout the United States during the first six months of 1926, now ending, appears to have been about 2 per cent greater than the record volume done, for the first half of the year, in 1925. The new record is indicated by a barometer which is as nearly infallible as industry can devise—the volume of freight handled over American rails.

It swelled during the first four and one-half months of the present year to 19,843,000 loaded freight cars. During the same period last year, it was 19,450,000 cars and in 1924 it was 18,739,000.

These figures indicate that the average amount of freight hauled during the year by class I railroads will exceed 1,000,000 cars a week. Never before has so high a figure been attained. It was nearly reached in 1925, falling short by only a few thousand cars weekly. Estimates made by the railroads in March for the first 18 weeks of the year were found, in the face of actual returns, to have been exceeded by 3.1 per cent.

One million carloads of freight gadding over American rails every week, shipped, and what is more, sold—such is the prospect for this year. It can't be visualized in the mind's eye. It means, however, about 30,000,000 tons of goods produced between Monday morning and Saturday night, goods of all kinds from coal and lumber and petroleum to automobile and building materials and cosmetics and cigarettes. It means that the American family of workers, numbering about 45,000,000, fill every week a solid freight train stretching from Portland, Me., to San Diego, and another freight train extending from Seattle to Miami, a great X whose four arms are each, roughly, 2,000 miles long.

It has never been quite done before, but the railroads are looking forward to its accomplishment this year, week in and week out, on the average, every one of the 52 weeks from New Year's day to New Year's eve. All of which hardly presages a slump.

To haul this weekly accumulation of freight, the railroads have put more than 500,000 new freight cars into service, and have patched up and repaired their stock of cars with such industry that there are today less than 200,000 in bad order, about one out of every fifteen. They have gone to the locomotive works with orders for thousands of new engines, preferring the monsters that haul 100 loaded cars on the level where possible.

In the hauling of this record volume of anticipated freight, the roads are looking forward to a new

PLEBISCITE IMPOSSIBLE, IT IS DECIDED AT ARICA

Early Termination of the Arbitration Proceedings There Is Expected.

CHILEANS MAY APPEAL

Arica, Chile, June 14 (By A. P.). The plebiscite commission today approved a resolution declaring that Chile had frustrated the award of the arbitrator (President Coolidge) in the Tacna-Arica dispute, and that for this reason a plebiscite was impossible.

(Gen. Lasiter, American chairman of the Tacna-Arica plebiscite commission, recently introduced a resolution before that body declaring that a plebiscite to establish the sovereignty of the disputed territory was impossible because of the alleged failure of the Chileans to guarantee fair voting conditions.)

Early termination of the Tacna-Arica arbitration proceedings at Arica is confidently expected by officials here who were informed last night of the approval by the plebiscite commission of the Lasiter

BOMB KILLS WOMAN; SUITOR IS ARRESTED

Nurse, Before Death, Asserts Man Was Jealous; He Denies Any Connection.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 14 (By A. P.).—Hurt by the explosion of a bomb sent her in a package, Mrs. Arlene Curtis, 50, a nurse, died today.

Ralph Seager, 37, of Homer, N. Y., was arrested. The police said Mrs. Curtis named him as the sender of the bomb. Held on an open charge, he insisted that he knew nothing of the tragedy.

In a statement to the authorities a few hours before her death, Mrs. Curtis said Seager was jealous because she went out with Carl Volansky, of Rochester. Seager threatened "to do something," she said.

The box containing the bomb was left yesterday on the doorstep of the rooming house where Mrs. Curtis lived. When Mrs. Curtis arrived home from church it was handed to her. It exploded when she opened it.

Mrs. Curtis had five children and was estranged from her husband.

Dempsey Acquitted Of Speeding by Jury

Fresno, Calif., June 14 (By A. P.).—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, charged with knowingly permitting the driver of his automobile to exceed the speed limit, March 25, last, was found not guilty by a jury in the justice court at Chowchilla, Madera county, late today, says a dispatch to the Fresno Morning Republican.

RAIL MEDIATION BOARD APPOINTED BY COOLIDGE

Four Members Selected by President, With Fifth to Be Named Soon.

CASE NOW AWAITS BODY

(By the Associated Press.) With exception of one member, the board of mediation created under the Watson-Parker act for readjustment of railroad labor disputes was appointed yesterday by President Coolidge.

Those selected were former Representative Samuel E. Winslow, of Massachusetts, for a term of five years; former Gov. Edwin P. Morrow of Kentucky for four years; G. Wallace Hanger, of the District of Columbia, for two years, and Hywel Davies, of California, for one year.

The name of the fifth member is expected to be sent soon to the Senate for confirmation. The delay is understood to be due to a desire of Mr. Coolidge to examine more closely qualifications of several he has in mind for the 3-year term.

Mr. Winslow is a former chairman of the House interstate commerce committee, retiring two years ago when he did not stand for reelection to the House. Both Mr. Morrow and Mr. Hanger were members of the public group of the railroad labor board, which was abolished by the act creating the board of mediation. Mr. Hanger having been vice chairman. Mr. Davies is a conciliator in the Labor Department here.

Members of the board are to be appointed for five years, but under (CONTINUED ON PAGE 12, COLUMN 2.)

Air Service Heads Seek Missing Flier

Officers of the office of the chief of air service, War Department, the army air stations of Bolling field and Mitchell field, N. Y., are still seeking information regarding Lieut. Robert B. Williams, air service, Mitchell field, N. Y., who left for Bolling field Sunday noon, and has not been heard from since.

Army officials are of the opinion that Lieut. Williams was compelled to descend at some remote place. No word had been received regarding his whereabouts up to 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Lord Oxford Is Ill Of Angina Pectoris

Sutton Courtenay, Berkshire, England, June 14 (By A. P.).—Lord Oxford and Asquith, formerly H. H. Asquith, the liberal leader, is suffering from a mild attack of angina pectoris, it was made known today. Sir Thomas Parkinson, who is attending the former premier, issued a statement this afternoon reading:

"Lord Oxford's condition, though not serious, necessitates absolute rest in consequence of a mild attack of angina pectoris following influenza."

COUNSEL SAYS ONLY SLIP FENNING MADE WAS SELF-BONDING

Commissioner Is Willing to Correct Missteps, Plea of Defense.

ERROR CITED AS SOLE EXCEPTION TO RECORD

Brief Filed With House Committee Suggests Action Against Blanton.

Commissioner Fenning's only misstep in 25 years of exemplary service as a professional guardian was his self-bonding practice, and he stands ready to make amends for this, his counsel declared in a brief filed with the House judiciary committee yesterday.

Citing the recent decision of Justice Suddens of the District Supreme court, that this "at most" was a "mistake of judgment," the brief declared that with this "single exception" nothing that "even justly legitimate criticism has been discovered."

Mr. Fenning thought he was prohibited by law from giving his bond commissions to his wards, according to the brief, but on the basis of Justice Suddens' decision he will take prompt steps to have the commissions credited to the estates of the wards. They range back as far as 1913.

Suggests Action Against Blanton.

It was suggested that action be taken against Representative Blanton, of Texas, for preferring the impeachment charges.

The judiciary subcommittee, headed by Representative Dyer, of Missouri, is to meet this morning in executive session to consider the case. Whether it will be able to make its report to the full committee after this one meeting is problematical.

The defense brief was signed by Frank J. Hogan, Thomas P. Littlepage and Levi Cooke.

An abundance of authority was cited in support of the contention that Mr. Fenning is not an impeachable officer, but counsel insisted that they did not want the question considered "solely" on these grounds.

Want Fenning Cleared.

"We do not desire that the subject * * * the brief read, 'shall be disposed of solely upon the ground of the unimpeachability of a commissioner of the District of Columbia. Serious charges were presented to the House of Representatives by a member thereof under the high privilege conferred by such membership and under the corresponding obligations imposed by that privilege. This committee with the utmost liberality has permitted the proponent of those

3 FIREMEN INJURED BY BLAST AT BLAZE

No. 14 Engine Co. Members Dragged From Wreckage in E Street Building.

Three firemen were badly burned at 2 o'clock this morning when a gasoline tank exploded in their faces while they were fighting a blaze in the three-story awning plant of R. C. M. Burton & Son, 911 E street northwest.

The injured men are Sergt. Michael Lamp, Oscar Kramer and Fred Littler, all of No. 14 engine company. They were given first aid outside the burning building after they had been dragged from the wreckage by other firemen. They later were sent to Emergency hospital.

The fire, which was of unknown origin, quickly spread to all three floors. Firemen were hampered by falling awnings and tents. The injured men were groping in the dark in an effort to locate the fire when the tank exploded. The flames were soon placed under control. The fire was discovered by E. C. Hartman, of the Rufus H. Darby printing establishment, next door.

Bull Fighter Gored To Death in Ring

Madrid, June 14 (By A. P.).—Mariano Montes, Mexican bull fighter, died today four hours after being gored in the bull ring. Montes disposed of two bulls before he was injured. He was taken to a hospital, and an operation was performed in a vain effort to save his life.

10 KILLED, 75 HURT, COVERED WITH ACID IN CHEMICAL BLAST

Several of Injured May Die From Burns at Steel Plant.

FLAMING CREOSOTE FLOODS WRECKAGE

Explosion at Gary, Ind., Heard More Than Mile; Cause of Explosion Unknown.

Gary, Ind., June 14 (By A. P.).—Ten workmen are known to have been killed and more than 75 injured, some so seriously they may die, in a gas and chemical explosion today in the coke by-products division of the Illinois Steel Co.'s plant. The dead included four white men and six negroes, none of them identified tonight.

Officials said that all workmen had been accounted for, including 46 in hospitals, some of them burned and mangled so badly doctors said they may die. Twenty or thirty others were injured and were taken to their homes.

Some of the dead could be identified only through metal tags bearing their pay roll numbers. Bodies of four were taken from the wrecked building, the others died in hospitals.

Most of the injured suffered from acid burns or from broken bones from falling timbers. Company officials said they have not determined the cause of the explosion.

The blast, which came without warning at 9:05 o'clock this morning, wrecked a building more than two blocks long, flooding the debris with coal tar, acids and flaming creosote. Fire in the mass of wreckage hampered rescue workers for several hours.

Heard More Than a Mile. The disaster was described as the worst in the Gary mills in recent years. The blast was heard more than a mile from the plant, and anxious women assembled at the mill hospital from all quarters of the city to inquire after relatives.

Armed guards quickly were stationed about the huge plant, which employs approximately 35,000 workers, to bar every one from the company property. At the hospital only the relatives of the identified injured were permitted to enter.

The wrecked unit was the principal source of Gary's gas supply. Reserve tanks held sufficient gas to last until midnight, by which time officers hoped to have developed emergency sources. A fleet of ten ambulance cars operated between the mill hospital and the coke plant for three hours after the blast. Emergency calls were sent to all city hospitals for nurses and physicians.

Four Others Meet Death.

Alton, Ill., June 14 (By A. P.).—Four men were killed and five injured in an explosion and fire at the refinery of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana at Woodruff today. An explosion, the cause of which is unknown, occurred in the liquid asphalt mixing tank. A pitch still nearby was ignited, where were employed the men killed or injured. The bodies of the men killed were burned so badly that identification was difficult. Damage to the plant was slight.

Doctor Rushed to Asylum; Found Sane; Freed; Weds

Paulsboro, N. J., June 14 (By A. P.).—Released from the State hospital for the insane at Trenton when it was found his commitment papers were illegal, Dr. William H. Pounds, a former mayor of Paulsboro, was married tonight to Miss Jennie Stiles, from whose side he had been taken to the asylum today by unidentified men.

The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. W. Lynch in the Methodist Episcopal church, which was filled to capacity. Mayor Don Banaman, of Paulsboro, was best man.

Taken from the side of his intended bride on his wedding day, Dr. Pounds, 74, was earlier today hustled into an automobile and taken to the State hospital.

Two men who displayed commitment papers seized Dr. Pounds, who protested and called futilely for help. Miss Jennie Stiles, 62, his intended bride, saw the occurrence, wept and insisted on going with her fiancé in the automobile. Dr. Pounds, whose wife died last

CHILD, 2, SKULL CRUSHED BY MRS. SYME'S CAR, DIES

Janet Farnham, Daughter of Cleveland Park Minister, Victim of Accident.

DARTS IN PATH OF AUTO

An automobile driven by Mrs. Conrad Syme, wife of Conrad Syme, lawyer and former corporation counsel of the District, yesterday knocked down and almost instantly killed 2-year-old Janet Farnham, daughter of the Rev. George L. Farnham, pastor of the Cleveland Park Congregational church and president of the Cleveland Park Community association. In front of the girl's home, 2943 Macomb street northwest.

Capt. Edner Inmon, of the United States army medical corps, who was passing at the time of the accident, prepared to take the girl to the hospital, but she died before medical assistance could be rendered. Her skull was badly crushed.

According to police, the girl, who was playing on the sidewalk near her home, suddenly darted into the street, directly in the path of the automobile. Before Mrs. Syme could apply the brakes the machine had struck the child, causing her head to crash against the pavement.

Deputy Coroner Joseph Rogers was notified of the accident and ordered an inquest tomorrow morning. Dr. Rogers ordered Mrs. Syme released in custody of her husband to appear at the inquest.

Franc at a New Low; Conference Follows

Paris, June 14 (By A. P.).—Premier Briand and M. Peret, the finance minister, had a lengthy conference today on the financial situation and the weakness of the franc. The franc reached a new low record, dropping to 36.57 to the dollar early in the morning, but reacted at the close of the bourse, being quoted at 35.49.

The steady decline is considered generally due to the unsatisfactory situation and uncertainty as to the future policy, but there is, in the opinion of financial experts, a certain amount of foreign speculation against French money and some operations in France which are not calculated to favor the franc, such as continued buying of wheat for future delivery.

HAITIAN PRESIDENT IS WELCOMED HERE BY U. S. OFFICIALS

Visiting Ruler and Party Greeted by Coolidge at White House.

BOWS AT STATION FAIL TO AROUSE RESPONSE

Borno, Storm Center at Home, Here to Discuss American Occupation.

President Louis Borno of Haiti and his party arrived in Washington yesterday, to be officially welcomed by Secretary of State Kellogg and other high United States officials, and, unofficially, by more than 100 red-hatted Union station porters and several hundred others, who watched his arrival in silence, in marked contrast to the noise which greeted his landing in New York.

A few minutes after his arrival he was officially received by President Coolidge in the White House. Mme. Borno was received in the executive mansion by Mrs. Coolidge, and a half hour later both the President and Mrs. Coolidge paid a courtesy call on President Borno and Mme. Borno at the Haitian legation, 1739 Connecticut avenue.

Perhaps the visiting president expected a more enthusiastic reception in Union Station, for as he reached the station end of the track on which his train arrived and came abreast of several persons gathered inside the train shed gates, he raised his hat in salute, and bowed slightly.

No Response to Bows.

If he was disappointed that there was not a single vocal response he did not show it and replaced his hat only to remove it again a moment later, touch his brow with his handkerchief and hold the hat in his hand as he bent slightly to catch some remark from Secretary Kellogg, walking beside him. He replaced it in the same silence that marked his reception as he was passing through the concourse and kept it on until he reached the outside where he was greeted with a verse of the national anthem of Haiti and another of the Star Spangled Banner, played by the Army band under direction of Lieut. Benter.

Then the party posed for a score of news photographers and turned back to enter the automobiles which were to take them to the Mayflower hotel where they will occupy the State and adjoining suites.

Given Official Honors.

Whatever may have been lacking in unofficial enthusiasm in the welcoming of President Borno was made up in official honors. The eastern end of the station concourse was roped off from the train gate to the President's waiting room and guarded by two files of marines in dress uniforms which stretched to the entrance. Outside was an escort of cavalry from Fort Myer, Va., which escorted the party to their hotel.

The route taken by the party was across Union station plaza to Delaware avenue, across the Capitol plaza and down the southern driveway, skirting the Capitol grounds to Pennsylvania avenue; thence to Fifteenth street. There the cavalcade swung south of the Treasury, north between it and the White House, up Pennsylvania avenue to Jackson place to Seventeenth street, to the De Sales street entrance of their hotel.

There President Borno and members of his escort stood in the hotel doorway awaiting arrival of the White House automobiles to take them to President Coolidge, who received the Haitian executive in the White House.

To Discuss Occupation.

President Borno, a storm center in his own country, came to the United States to discuss several matters incident to American occupation in Haiti.

His right to the presidency of Haiti has been challenged on the ground that he was born in Guadalupe, French territory, and therefore is ineligible to hold that office. He was accused of packing the governing council, which selects the president since the suspension of election by the Haitian legislature since the Roosevelt treaty, with six

SCHOOL DAY CHANGE JUST 'HULLABALOO,' AVERS MRS. RAFTER

Parent-Teacher Body Not to Act on Proposal, She Asserts.

LOCAL CONGRESS HEAD
REPLIES TO GRAHAM

Stanton Park Citizens Association Almost Unanimously Rejects Suggestion.

The board of education will never know the views of the District Congress of Parent-Teachers Associations in regard to the proposed change in school days, Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, president of the congress, stated yesterday, terming the board's plan "a lot of 'hullabaloo' over nothing."

E. C. Graham, president of the board, communicated with Mrs. Rafter requesting an expression of opinion on the proposed change, which deals with lengthening school hours, holding sessions on Saturdays and doing away with home work. Mr. Graham sought to have a questionnaire voted upon by the congress and various associations.

Meetings Over for Season.
In replying, Mrs. Rafter stated that the congress and many of the associations had held their last meetings of the season, and it would be impossible to place the communication of the board before a meeting. She also stated that such a matter concerned the individuals themselves.

"The Parent-Teachers organization or no other organization has the right to pass on such a question," Mrs. Rafter said, in discussing the proposed change, "as such a matter concerns the individual parent and child, only, and they alone should approve or disapprove of the change. There are more important things than this to be done, and I don't see why time should be wasted on this question."

Teachers' Time Occupied.
The plan agreed that teachers could give more time to pupils individually if the classes were reduced and hours lengthened, but Mrs. Rafter said that teachers are doing all they can now and should not be expected to do more.
The plan met its first rebuff recently when placed before the last meeting of the Carberry Parent-Teachers association and was disapproved by unanimous vote.

Voted Down by Civic Body.
Unfavorable comment from all sides greeted the questionnaire when it was presented to members of the Stanton Park Citizens association last night at its last meeting of the season in Peabody school and resulted in an almost unanimous vote of disapproval.

Several hundred members attended the meeting, packing the assembly hall to overflowing. When D. F. Manning, secretary, read the questions dealing with the lengthening of hours, holding school on Saturdays and doing away with home work a general discussion started. Less than ten of the large number present spoke in favor of the change. The association decided generally that a change would only mean a hardship on the children.

Track Team Honor Guest.
The Peabody-Hilton track team was honored guest of the association. Harry N. Stull, president, awarded a silver loving cup, donated by the association, to Melvin Davis and Richard Hollin, of the team, who received the token on behalf of their fellow athletes.
Robert R. Faulkner, president of the Michigan Park Citizens association, spoke, urging encouragement of children in athletics. The meeting in the main was a social one and was given over to entertainment.

Stern Sacrifice Required By Nation, President Says

Chicago, June 14 (By A. P.). Stern sacrifice must go on to maintain government, President Coolidge said in a message read today by Dr. B. J. Cigrand, president of the National Flag Day association, at the annual observance here of flag day.

"The men who founded our government had fought and thought mightily on the relationship of man to his government," said the President's message. "Our institutions would go for a time under the momentum they gave. But we should be deluded if we supposed they can be maintained without more of the same stern sacrifice offered in perpetuity. Government is not an edifice that the founders turned over to posterity all completed. It is an institution, like a university, which falls unless the process of education continues."

Wheeler Is Presented With Smoking Set

Maj. Raymond A. Wheeler, assistant engineer commissioner, who will be transferred this week, was presented with a mahogany smoking set by a committee from the Brightwood Citizens association yesterday afternoon. The gift was in recognition of Maj. Wheeler's "many courtesies" to the residents of the northern section of the District while he has been executive officer of the zoning commission.

The committee which made the presentation was headed by Charles W. Ray, president of the association, and included H. E. King, corresponding secretary; H. J. Landgraf, treasurer; Col. John Claggett Proctor, vice president, and William McKee Clayton.

Guild of Organists May Convene Here

The American Guild of Organists will meet in convention here next June if the local chapter can make necessary arrangements for the gathering. Adolph Torovsky, dean of the local chapter, announced at the final meeting of the body last night in the Epiphany church. No action was taken on the invitation.

Mr. Torovsky reported on the fifth annual convention of the guild that he attended as a delegate in Buffalo June 1, 2 and 3. It was announced that Mrs. Mabel Frost, organist of Mount Vernon Methodist Episcopal Church South, had resigned her position there.

EDUCATION IN LAW OBSERVANCE URGED AT FLAG EXERCISES

Commissioner Scott Offers

Education of the public in law observance was advocated as a remedy for present-day conditions by Winfield Scott, commissioner of pensions, at the Flag day exercises, held under the direction of the department patriotic instructors of the Grand Army of the Republic and the Woman's Relief Corps, on the eastern steps of the Capitol last night.

Mr. Scott took the position that "moral exorcism, on individuals" which are not in conformity to the Constitution, should be made subordinate to the Constitution, and that the law of the nation should prevail above all else. People of other lands or native Americans should be educated into a position of subordination beneath the Constitution, he said.

In his plea for law observance, he said: "The Constitution of the United States is not a thing framed by any one human mind, or even by the founders of the republic. It is a thing which has gradually evolved in the Anglo-Saxon soul through ages of development and harkens to a period remote as the beginning of English law."

No Amendment Repealed.
"And since its original adoption it has gradually grown. No amendment made to the Constitution has ever been repealed. It represents the character of the American people and should be observed as the proper law standard of the people." "The flag is the people," he avowed, adding that "every man's flag is what he does toward fulfillment of the principles reflected and symbolized by the flag." The flag symbolizes the character of the people, he explained, just as the Constitution is an embodiment of it. He recited the history of the flag, and said that the flag had evolved in the same manner that the Constitution had.

The program was opened by the call to assembly by the bugler of the Navy band. Color bearers of patriotic organizations next entered, under the direction of Mary Van Ness Fauth. The Rev. Joseph Thompson Heron, pastor of Hamilton

Methodist Episcopal church, delivered the invocation.
Josephine Daily sang the national anthem, accompanied by the Navy band. John Gilman Bugbee recited "I Am an American." The Rev. Robert E. McBride, department chaplain of the G. A. R., pronounced the benediction. An impressive patriotic drill was given by the Daughters of Veterans.

Commander W. R. Furlong, U. S. N., made the Flag day address at the meeting of the Jacob Jones post, American Legion, at the Endicott place last night.

Exercises were held in all of the schools under the direction of Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools. Homage to the flag and the singing of patriotic songs featured all these ceremonies.

Approximately 2,200 students of Central high school gathered in the school auditorium yesterday morning to "tribute to Old Glory." Addresses were made by Dr. Charles V. Petters, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, and Col. Clarence A. Belknap, department commander of the United Spanish War Veterans. "The flag imports obedience to the law," Col. B. P. Entriken, past department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, told 600 pupils assembled before the flag shaft in front of Langley Junior High school.

Urges Law Observance.

Speaking with the authority of 84 years, he continued: "Just as you obey and respect your teachers, you should obey and respect the law. The flag is a symbol of the law. There is entirely too strong a tendency to place personal rights above that unity of law upon which the government is founded."

"I was in the civil war and it taught me to hate war. I have always stood for peace. Yet everyone of you should consider it an obligation to defend your country if defense becomes necessary. Your ambition should be to grow up to be red-blooded Americans, peace-loving, but bound to the preservation of the principles of your country."

Henry Gilligan, president of the North Capitol Citizens' association, presented four flags to the school, obtained through the efforts of Gen. C. H. Ourand. All the 20 rooms now have flags presented by the association. Henry W. Draper, principal, formally accepted the flags. Jane Page Menefee recited a poem "The American Flag." The McKinley Technical High school band furnished music.

An assembly of 1,700 students gathered in front of the flag shaft of Eastern High school were admonished by former Senator Thomas Sterling, of South Dakota, not to worship the flag materially.

President Sends Letter.
"The flag stands for what yet may be accomplished by our country, as well as what has been accomplished in the past, and for what the government itself is," he explained. "The flag stands for hope," he declared. He urged the students to honor it for its meaning.

The Rev. Paul Sperry pronounced the invocation. The exercises were conducted by the Eastern High School Alumni association. Dr. De Witt Croissant, president of the association, presided. A letter from President Coolidge was read, announcing his regret that he could not attend the exercises. Music was furnished by the Eastern High School band, which was directed by Mrs. C. V. Bryman, assisted by L. E. Manoly.

Approximately 2,000 employees of the Postoffice Department attended exercises in the court of the main building at Eleventh and Pennsylvania avenue in the afternoon. The Rev. James H. Taylor pronounced the invocation. A chorus of 150 employees was led by Robert H. Harmon, who had charge of the exercises. The Army band played a number of selections. A trumpet solo was given by Thomas F. Darcy, second leader of the band. Mary Sherler Bowie sang the National anthem.

Employees of the Navy Department observed Flag day with exercises at the east end of the Navy building yesterday. Admiral E. W. Eberle, Rear Admiral E. R. Stitt, U. S. N., and Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, U. S. M. C., were in attendance. Philip Walker was chairman of the meeting and gave the address in the absence of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Robinson. The assembly sang "The Star-Spangled Banner," repeated the oath of allegiance to the flag and gave the flag salute. Chief Chaplain E. W. Scott, U. S. N., delivered the invocation and benediction. "America the Beautiful" was sung, and the Navy band also furnished music.

Representative Brooks Fletcher, of Ohio, gave a patriotic address last night in the Brookland school when the Brookland Citizens association and Brookland Parent-Teacher association held a joint meeting commemorating flag day. Pupils of the Brookland school led in the singing of patriotic songs and Mr. Fletcher urged them to acquire patriotism early in life by following the lives of national characters and the country's heroes. C. F. Tansill, pioneer resident of the community, also spoke. Musical numbers dominated the program.

ARLINGTON COUNTY WATER VOTE TODAY

Biggest Ballot in History of Community Expected on $750,000 Proposal.

The voters of Arlington county will go to the polls today to decide one of the most important questions that has ever confronted them—whether there is to be a $750,000 bond issue to finance the laying of water mains to bring city water into the county.

The heaviest vote in the history of the county is expected to be recorded. The polls will open at 4:41 o'clock and remain open until sunset, 7:35 o'clock. E. Wade Ball, county treasurer, last night declared that it would be the biggest day in the history of Arlington county.

"Never in the history of the county have the voters had an opportunity to vote upon a project that means more to the county," he said. "I cannot see anything but that the issue will carry by the largest majority ever polled in the county."

COOLEY, WHO ARRESTED SHERIFF, TO FACE COURT

Rockville Police Sergeant
Charged With Driving Car
While Intoxicated.

TAKEN AFTER CAR CRASH

Police Sgt. Charles T. Cooley, 55 years old, of Rockville, Md., who arrested Sheriff Clay Plummer, of Montgomery county, Saturday, on a charge of assault and battery, was arrested yesterday in Rockville on charges of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and of reckless driving. The trials of Sheriff Plummer and Sgt. Cooley will be held this morning in police court at Rockville.

The charges against Sergeant Cooley followed an accident Saturday night about four miles below Rockville in which the automobiles of Sergeant Cooley and L. F. Miles, of Woodside, Md., figured. Both drivers were charged with reckless driving. Yesterday, however, R. H. Herr, of Woodside, a passenger in Miles' machine, swore out a warrant against Cooley for driving while drunk. Cooley was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Clifford L. Howard.

Sgt. Cooley was formerly connected with the Union Station police force here and at one time was chief of police at Rockville. The assault and battery charge against Sheriff Plummer was preferred by John E. Oxley, a member of the Rockville bar, who charged that Sheriff Plummer used excessive force in ejecting him from the police headquarters at Rockville recently.

LEAGUE WILL ASK BRAZIL TO RECALL RESIGNATION NOTE

Rio's Election to Council as Temporary Member Is Being Discussed.

PLANS ARE TO BE LAID FOR A DEMONSTRATION

No Other Latin-American
Powers Expected to Emulate Example.

Geneva, June 14 (By A. P.).—The League of Nations was formally and officially notified today that Brazil resigned from that body.

This followed more quickly than had been expected Brazil's resignation a few days ago from the council of the league. It caused much concern among the delegates of the other countries and every effort will be made to induce Brazil to change her decision.

The Latin-American delegates were of the opinion tonight that no Latin-American countries would join Brazil and withdraw from the League of Nations, and a popular manifestation designed to bring a change of front among the Brazilian statesmen was considered a probability for the September assembly.

The spokesmen remarked that this could be done by unanimously electing Brazil to a temporary seat in the council, thus launching the idea that Brazil would be reelected in the future, virtually giving her that permanent membership which was her ambition. European delegates, it is said, may participate in the suggested pro-Brazilian demonstration.

Remains Member for 2 Years.

Notwithstanding her resignation Brazil remains a member of the league for two years, by virtue of the covenant, which provides for notification of intention to resign two years in advance. The Brazilian delegation awaits instructions from Rio Janeiro concerning the attitude to be taken toward current and future league activities, but Dr. Mello Franco assumes that he will receive orders to discontinue all co-operation and close up the Brazilian league embassy. He plans to proceed to Paris, but will return later to take leave of Sir Eric Drummond and the other officials of the secretariat.

The international labor bureau is wondering whether Brazil's resignation from the league implies also resignation from the labor body. Some laborists hold that a nation can belong to the labor office without adhering to the league as in the case of Germany, while others declare that resignation from the league automatically involves withdrawal from the labor organization. Labor officials, however, said that

State Department Action Lax in Case, Says Caruana

Catholic Prelate Says U. S. Did Not Make Mexican Officials Live Up to Agreement when He Was Deported.

(By the Associated Press.)

Adding to the controversy involving the expulsion from Mexico of Mgr. George J. Caruana, the Catholic prelate, the national Catholic welfare conference yesterday made public a letter written by Mgr. Caruana to Secretary Kellogg, in which he asserted his dealings with Mexican authorities were straightforward, and that he did not feel that the State Department had done everything justifiable in his case.

The letter, dated June 4, and made public as a result of charges in New York Sunday night by the Mexican consul general, in which Mgr. Caruana was accused of classing himself as a Protestant, to gain entry to Mexico, insisted the Mexican government had violated assurances given the American Ambassador, and that it became the duty of the State Department to take whatever steps were necessary. Furthermore, the bishop said, this government should adopt a more energetic and precise policy in protecting American citizens in Mexico.

Detailing his entrance at Laredo, Tex., the prelate said that at that time Mexico had not repealed its immigration law of December 22, 1908, and inquiry at the Mexican embassy here resulted in assurances that there was nothing either in the Mexican constitution or in the laws or regulations of Mexico which could interfere with the entry of an American clergyman into that country at that time. "I, of course," he said, "was aware of the provisions of the Mexican constitution which prohibit me, as an American citizen, to function as a clergyman in Mexico."

"The American passport which I exhibited to the immigration authorities of the Mexican government at Laredo, showed clearly that I was a clergyman and the medical certificate, which I exhibited to the health authorities at the same time, showed with equal clearness that I was the 'right reverend bishop of Porto Rico.'"

"In going to Mexico, I had no intention of performing any function proper to the profession of a clergyman. In order fully to comply with the constitution and laws of Mexico, I had, in so far as was possible, divested myself of my clerical profession. The fact that I had exercised this profession was a matter in which the government could not be properly interested, especially in view of the assurances received from the Mexican Ambassador at Washington prior to my departure from that city."

Therefore, in reply to the immigration official at Nuevo Laredo, that I did not mention the fact that I am a clergyman in listing my professional titles. The information I gave him covered every activity in which I intended to engage while in Mexico and, taken in connection with the documents exhibited by me at the time, was a full and complete statement."

On May 12, the prelate said, he

Brazil probably would be deemed to be a member of the labor bureau unless she specifically resigned from it.

League circles made it clear tonight that despite Rio Janeiro's action the league would not change its decision to offer the post of director of the judicial section of the secretariat to the Brazilian jurist, Raoul Fernandez. This position carries with it the title of undersecretary of the League of Latin-American States. Dr. Fernandez recently was appointed Minister to Belgium, but efforts will be made to induce him to accept the league berth.

CARDINAL DISGUISED ON ARRIVAL IN U. S.; GARMENTS SHABBY

Faulhaber, Reported to Have Landed Last Thursday,
Reaches New York.

MISQUOTED IN AMERICA
2 YEARS AGO, HE SAYS

More High Dignitaries of the Church Aboard Liners on Way to Chicago.

New York, June 14 (By A. P.).

Clad in the shabby garb of a poor priest, a tourist cap and an overcoat green with age, "Prof. B. Michaelis" arrived on the liner Albert Ballin today to reveal himself to his surprised fellow travelers as Cardinal von Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich.

Because of a desire to shun publicity the German cardinal put away his robes of office and the ring which would have identified him and made the whole journey without any one on the boat but his associates aware of his identity. He refused to respond to reporters' salutation of "your eminence" and became embarrassed when they persisted in questioning him.

Cardinal Faulhaber was greeted at the pier by a delegation of German priests. He went immediately to the home of the Rev. Father Kunig, in Brooklyn, where he will remain until he leaves for the Eucharistic congress in Chicago.

Reported Landing Thursday.

His arrival today put an end to reports that he had landed last Thursday and was unable to participate in ceremonies of yesterday because of illness. At various times he had been reported as being the guest of Father Kunig and Cardinal Hayes, respecting the visiting cardinal's request for privacy, ordered that no word be given out relative to his plans.

Joseph Breen, publicity representative of the Eucharistic congress' headquarters, said that the cardinal's desire to travel incognito was prompted by the fact that the cardinal was embarrassed by being "misquoted" by some of the newspapers on the occasion of his sailing abroad after his visit here two years ago.

Mr. Breen said that the report relative to the cardinal's arrival had resulted from misinformation received by Mgr. Rempe, of Chicago, who had come to New York to act as aid-de-camp to the German cardinal. Even the clerics supposedly in close contact with the arrangements were at a loss as to his whereabouts.

The eight foreign cardinals now in New York and their retinues will receive the formal welcome of the State and city when they meet Gov. Smith and Mayor Walker at the city hall tomorrow noon. The ceremony will be broadcast through station WNYC.

Man Driving "Too Slow" Is Arrested as Speeder

Special to The Washington Post.

Chicago, June 14.—Joseph P. Hickey was in the speeders' court today to answer a charge of "speeding." He had been arrested because he was driving on a crowded thoroughfare at eight miles an hour. Other motorists were exasperated because they had to turn out to pass him, or follow his slow gait. So they caused his arrest. Lacking any other charge, the police booked him for "speeding."

"My brakes were not working well," Hickey explained. "The pavements were slippery and I did not want to take the risk of running down anybody. There was plenty of room on either side for other cars to pass if they wished."

"I can see no crime in driving at the rate of eight miles an hour," said Judge Padden. "Other motorists might have been annoyed but the defendant displayed some consideration for people crossing the street. Charges dismissed."

WET GROUP OF BILLS TO REENTER SENATE ON ADVERSE REPORT

Judiciary Committee to Recommend Action Be Indefinitely Postponed.

DECISION OUTGROWTH OF BORAH SUGGESTION

Edwards Assails Wheeler for Blaming Liquor Interests for Slush Fund.

(By Associated Press.)

The wet bloc's group of proposals for modifying the dry law were assured yesterday of a place on the Senate calendar, but they will go there accompanied by an adverse report from the judiciary committee.

After nearly two hours of debate in committee yesterday, the measures were ordered adversely reported with an accompanying recommendation that action on them be indefinitely postponed. However, they are placed in a position so that the wet leaders in the Senate can make a fight for them.

Committee Divided.

With Senator Reed (Democrat), of Missouri, implacable foe of prohibition, absent because of other official duties, the committee divided at first on the proposition of adversely reporting the measures or pigeonholing them in committee.

Senator Borah (Republican), of Idaho, wanted separate treatment given the Bruce resolution to amend the prohibition amendment, asserting that it should be sent back to the Senate so that its proponents could call it up and have it adopted if they could muster the necessary two-thirds majority. The upshot was a decision to send in all seven measures together.

Action Called "Anti-Climax."

Explaining that the bills on which the wets desired to concentrate already had been offered as amendments to the pending administration bill for tightening up the Volstead act, Senator Edwards (Republican), of New Jersey, said the committee action was "a sort of anti-climax."

"It makes no difference whether the bills are reported adversely or favorably," he added. "They will get about as far as will the dry bill. Notwithstanding the great disparity of numbers in the Senate it looks like a draw. We are more than satisfied with the progress we have made. The country now knows the facts and in time will act accordingly."

Edwards Assails Wheeler.

Another of the wet Senate leaders, Edwards (Democrat), New Jersey, issued a statement vigorously assailing Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Antislavery league, for his comment Sunday on the disclosure that the Republican Pennsylvania primary.

He asserted that Wheeler's action in blaming the "liquor interests" for expending the "slush fund" in Pennsylvania "is in true accord with the lying and unscrupulous methods practiced by the Antislavery league in this, its hour of defeat."

"Mr. Wheeler says nothing about the thousands of dollars expended by the Pinchot machine to buy 'dry' votes to pay the expenses of 'dry' speakers," he added.

Both Equally Censurable.

"Assuming that the 'liquor interests' did contribute to the Vane machine, which is the more reprehensible—the buying of votes by Wheeler and his cohorts or the buying of votes by those not in agreement with Antislavery propaganda? Both are equally culpable and censurable."

"The system fastened on the State by the liquor interests which Wheeler so naively condemns never, in its palmy days, reached the heights of nefariousness and villainy of our 'holier-than-thou' zealots."

McNARY BILL OPPOSED BY MELLON IN LETTER

Proponents of Measure Assail Coolidge in Senate as Blocking Legislation.

JARDINE LEAD FOLLOWED

(By Associated Press.)

Secretary Mellon came out yesterday in opposition to the principles of the McNary farm bill, pending in the Senate, and the Haugen proposal recently rejected by the House. He outlined his position in a letter to Chairman Haugen, of the House agriculture committee, and Representatives Dickinson, of Iowa, and Anthony, of Kansas, Republicans, who recently sought his views on the controversial equalization fee question.

While the Treasury head, who expressed doubt as to the constitutionality of the proposed equalization fee and declared the legislation would prove "neither workable nor beneficial," was making public his opinion, President Coolidge and the administration were assailed in the Senate by proponents of the McNary bill, who charged that the President was blocking the legislation.

The administration was attacked particularly by Chairman Norris, of the agriculture committee, who said an agreement had been made between President Coolidge, Secretaries Hoover and Jardine, and representatives of cooperative organizations to confine farm relief to cooperative marketing legislation.

"The cooperatives have a right to do that," he added "but they ought to come out in the open and not do it in secret."

In lining up definitely against the McNary and Haugen measures, along with Secretary Jardine, who some weeks ago told the House agriculture committee that he was opposed to the equalization fee feature, Mr. Mellon said that while the farmers "purports to be paid by the farmers it will be included in the increased price of the commodity."

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon June 14, and adjourned at 5:15 p. m. until today at 12 o'clock.

Senator Heflin (Democrat), of Alabama, addressed Senate on the flag and the farmer.

Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, occupied most of the afternoon in advocacy of farm relief legislation at this session.

Samuel E. Winslow, of Massachusetts; Edwin P. Morrow, of Kentucky; G. Wallace Hanger, of the District of Columbia, and Hywel Davies, of California, were nominated to be members of the Railroad Mediation board.

Democratic leader Robinson proposed as a substitute for McNary-Haugen bill, plan involving government subscription to $200,000,000 fund to be loaned to farmers for exporting of surplus crops.

Senator Johnson, of California, formally announced the death of Representative Lawrence J. Flaherty, of San Francisco, and briefly eulogized his career.

Agreement for limitation of debate on pending McNary-Haugen bill and amendments was changed to include proposed substitutes, limitation of debate to begin today.

Senator King, of Utah, submitted a report on the bill providing for deportation of certain alien seamen. Senate confirmed a long list of postmasters.

Judiciary committee voted to report back to Senate pending eight "wet" bills, including Bruce prohibition amendment referendum, with subscription to $200,000,000 fund to be loaned to farmers for exporting of surplus crops.

Before the committee investigating tariff commission, Commissioner Henry H. Glasie concluded his testimony.

Representative Burton, of Ohio, told commerce committee considering rivers and harbors bill, that lowering level of lakes had caused great loss to lake commerce and shipping, damaged dock systems and put summer resorts out of business.

PRESIDENT OF HAITI IS GUEST IN CAPITAL

members of the Borno family while he was occupying the office of provisional president.

Denial is made by his supporters of the charge that President Borno is foreign born. He was born in Guadalupe, it is admitted, but his parents were Haitians, residing there temporarily, and later returning to their native land, where President Borno has since lived.

President Borno stands about 5 feet 10 inches in height and is of slim build. His hair is straight and gray and the height of his round, sloping forehead has been increased by partial baldness. Brown eyes and black of eye, he wears gold-rimmed eyeglasses which pinch his nose and to which is attached a narrow black ribbon. His close-cropped mustache contrasts with the mustaches of flaring upstanding ends which are sported by one or two members of his party. He wore a formal black coat, striped trousers and patent leather shoes.

Contrast to First Lady.

Mme. Borno, by contrast to her slim, straight, husband is short and stout, about to his shoulder in height, and is of very light complexion. She was dressed in a black and white, small-checked coat trimmed with black cuffs and wide black edges, with a wide black tail of the same material.

Beneath the coat Mme. Borno wore a long blouse, which fell below the waist, of the same material as the body of the coat and trimmed with a narrow black edging down the front with a black belt. Her skirt was black. She wore a close-fitting black straw hat trimmed in black velvet and light-colored silk stockings and shoes to match. She carried a small bouquet on the left lapel of her coat. A medium-length string of pearls were about her neck. Her medium-sized handbag was trimmed in flowered cloth.

The visiting Haitian president and his party arrived from New York in a private car on the end of a regular Pennsylvania train. They were accompanied here by Assistant Secretary Butler, who presented the other United States officials who had been waiting near the entrance of the train shed. Introductions were in French, and conversing in French, the party started for the street, with Secretary Kellogg and Mr. Wright, escorting President Borno, in the lead.

Caught in Downpour.

A slight drizzle of rain which began as the party left union station turned into a summer downpour by the time the party reached Tenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, but stopped again by the time they reached the White House.

President Borno's party included Mme. Borno, Leon Delens, minister of foreign affairs of Haiti; Dr. W. W. Cumberland, American financial advisor to the Haitian government; Capt. Roche B. LaRoche, Lieut. Omar Cham and J. J. Morgan. Minister and Mme. Price accompanied them here from New York.

Returned to his hotel from the Haitian legation, where President and Mrs. Coolidge paid the visitor a return call immediately after their call at the White House, President Borno retired to his suite and shortly afterward left the hotel for an automobile ride about Washington. Returning he took a walk about the streets of the city, returning to the hotel early and retiring. Mme. Borno remained in the hotel.

The visit of the Haitian president was prompted simply by a desire to see Americans on their native heath. Dr. Cumberland said.

Advisor Denies Loan.

He denied that President Borno would seek a loan from the United States government under the provisions of the Roosevelt treaty, which provided for a $40,000,000 loan to Haiti, of which $16,000,000 was advanced some time past. "There is no loan, no problem and no fight," he declared.

There is $4,000,000 of Haitian money out on call loans in New York, it was said, in proof of the statement that no new loan is needed or desired. President Borno has spent the last 30 years on his home island and wanted a vacation and felt that because of the special relations between Haiti and the United States he should come to this country and meet its officials and its people.

Suggestion that the boozing and jeering which marked the landing of President Borno in New York was prompted by paid hecklers, was

BORAH FAVORS LIVING UP TO ALL AMENDMENTS

Precedents Point Not to Nullification but to Enforcement, He Declares.

SAYS NEGRO UNPREPARED

(By Associated Press.)

Senator Borah, of Idaho, who has taken up the fight against nullification of the eighteenth amendment, said yesterday that in his opinion the country's experience with the constitutional amendments giving full civil rights to the negro did not indicate that the one relating to prohibition could be successfully nullified.

Recently the senator was misquoted in an article published here as saying that emancipation of the negro at the time he was emancipated was a mistake. What he did say was that it was unjust to the white and unjust to the negro to enfranchise him without permitting him to work out, through time and education, his franchise.

Much is now being said about the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments," the Idaho senator said in a statement yesterday. "It is said in some quarters that the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments are being nullified and therefore the eighteenth amendment could likewise be nullified."

"I think the enfranchisement of the negro at the time and in the manner it was brought about was a great mistake. It was unjust to the whites and unfair to the blacks. It put upon the latter a burden for which he was wholly unprepared and because he could not meet that burden he has been severely criticized. It would have been far better if we had followed the advice of Lincoln and granted the right to vote as the colored man became prepared for it."

But I do not admit that the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments are being nullified. It was a fearful problem which these amendments placed upon the South, but there is every evidence that they are meeting the problem with patience and patriotism and in time in my opinion it will be worked out with justice to all and in harmony with the spirit of the Constitution. The fourteenth and fifteenth amendments are not precedents for the nullification of the eighteenth amendment but rather precedents for a faithful and patient effort to live up to and maintain it."

Hawaii Asks Naval Reserve Air Station

Petitions for establishment of a naval reserve aviation unit in Hawaii, capable of turning out ten pilots a year are being received by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur from officials and business representatives of Honolulu.

Letters assert that there is a large and growing interest in aviation there and that citizens feel that with the rapid development of the Pacific area and Hawaii, the islands will be an important link in the air chain of the earth.

advanced by Dr. Cumberland. "Knowing the activities of those opposed to President Borno, I would not be surprised if there were paid hecklers in New York as in Port au Prince," he said.

President and Mme. Borno will be the guests of President and Mrs. Coolidge at a luncheon in the White House at 1 o'clock this afternoon. This morning the visitors will be received at 9:15 o'clock by Secretary Jardine at the Agriculture department, where the Haitian president will make an inspection of the department machinery. A visit will be made to Fort Myer at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. They will visit Arlington cemetery and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, escorted by high army officers and a squadron of cavalry from the fort.

A reception for President and Mme. Borno will be given in the New Villa at 8 o'clock tonight by the Dominican Minister, and in Wardman Park hotel at 8 o'clock tomorrow night by Minister and Mme. Price. Thursday night a reception will be tendered the visiting president at the Pan-American Union building. President Borno and his party will leave here Friday to visit other American cities.

$500,000,000 TOTAL RECEIPTS EXPECTED BY TREASURY TODAY

U. S. Government Will Receive Debt Payments From England and Italy.

SECOND INCOME TAX PAYMENTS ARE DUE

Almost Every Section of the Nation Will Send Money to Capital.

(By the Associated Press.)

Transactions involving more than $500,000,000 will be dealt in today by the Treasury as it receives money from almost every section of the nation and world and conducts its regular quarterly financing. Second installments of income taxes, due today, will comprise the bulk of the receipts. It is estimated these payments will total nearly $400,000,000 although Treasury officials declined yesterday to set a more definite figure because of difficulties in the way of making an accurate estimate.

War debt payments from foreign countries also are due today with about $75,000,000 expected from this source, principally from Great Britain which will pay $47,950,000 in interest on its debt. Italy will be the next largest contributor with $5,000,000 at this time, while Belgium will pay $3,084,000. Because its settlement is not yet in effect France will not be forced to make a payment tomorrow. It is also probable that Yugoslavia, whose agreement still is awaiting approval, will pass over this payment.

In turn, the Treasury must redeem today $330,000,000 in maturing short-term securities. The large amount of receipts in prospect together with the cash on hand will make possible this retirement without a new loan by the government.

Practically all of the war debt payments are expected to be paid in bonds of this government which automatically means a reduction of the outstanding debt.

Call money, however, above the needs of the government will be used at this time for reduction of the nation's war debt, which still is above the $20,000,000,000 mark.

While second installments of income taxes must be paid by tonight it will be several days before the exact total of these receipts is known. The first payment, made in March, totaled slightly over $500,000,000. To what extent the taxpayers paid their bills in full at that time is not known, and for this reason an estimate on the collections for this quarter was not ventured by Secretary Mellon.

ARICA VOTE FUTILE, COMMISSION VOTES

resolution declaring it impossible to hold a plebiscite.

The possibility that Chile will appeal to President Coolidge, the arbitrator, in a last effort to override the commission's action on the resolution, was recognized as a factor in the official silence that shrouds developments.

An appeal would have to be passed upon by President Coolidge before the commission's action on the resolution could be given final effect. That he would support the commission's position and reject such an appeal, was the unanimous opinion of authorities familiar with the situation in Arica.

The resolution's adoption, it was thought, will lead Gen. Lassiter to advise President Coolidge that he sees no reason for remaining in Arica and plans to return without delay to his Panama command. It is not assumed, however, that he would withdraw from South America until the arbitrator's assent is given.

What effect the resolution's adoption will have upon the attempt of Secretary Kellogg to solve the Tacna-Arica problem by direct diplomatic treatment has not been revealed. A State Department official would say in this connection that the mediation proceedings still were in progress and prospects were good for a piquet session within the next few days.

Because of Chile's insistence that the plebiscite be held, the opinion prevailed in some Latin-American quarters that Chile would refuse to accept a settlement by mediation.

NURSES HOME REPORTED TO SENATE

$400,000 Columbia Hospital
Appropriation Favored by District Committee.

OTHER CITY MEASURES UP

The bill authorizing the construction of a new nurses' home at Columbia hospital yesterday was reported favorably by the Senate District Committee. The bill was amended to authorize an appropriation of $400,000 instead of $300,000 in order that the nurses may have separate rooms.

Bills to abolish the remaining grade crossings in the District and to create a parole commission also were reported favorably.

Senator Phelps, of Colorado, appeared with the Rev. Abram Simon in behalf of the new nurses' home. Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, told the committee, that a separate bill to provide for annual instead of biennial assessments on real estate was unnecessary, as the House had tackled the provision on a bill already passed by the Senate, and that the end would be served by the Senate agreeing to the amendment.

W. I. Swanton, of the Citizens' Advisory council, spoke in favor of the annual assessment plan.

Senator Sackett, of Kentucky, made known that he is withholding action on the bill, already passed by the House, authorizing the erection of a new police court building, until the meeting Thursday of the Fine Arts commission.

Senator Sackett and Senator Copeland, of New York, were delegated by Senator Capper, chairman of the committee, to confer with the District commissioners in the light of complaints from colored residents against location of the McKinley High school power plant at the corner of Second and R streets northeast. Senator Copeland suggested that it could be located adjacent to the heating plant of the Langley Junior High school.

Baking Corporation Decision Assailed

(By Associated Press.)

A charge that the Federal Trade Commission's dismissal of its antitrust complaint against the Continental Baking Corporation was "railroaded" by the majority members, "within about fifteen minutes," and that Chairman Nugent of the commission was not even given time to read over the documents upon which the commission's action was based, was made in a dissenting opinion made public last night by Commissioners Thompson and Nugent.

The dismissal effected some time ago was brought about, the dissenting opinion said, to allow filing of the consent decrees in Federal court at Baltimore dissolving the Ward Food Products Co. Minority members of the commission also charged that this decree left "William B. Ward, his former employees, intimate friends and business associates in control of the Ward, Continental and General Baking corporations, the three largest in the country."

Mrs. Voigt on Stand In $100,000 Suit

Mrs. Hilda C. Voigt, wife of Edward S. Voigt, Jr., filed a $100,000 suit yesterday in District court to recover damages which she claimed against Edward S. Voigt, Sr., and Mrs. Charlotte Voigt, parents of her husband, took the stand yesterday in circuit court to convince the jury that she had a cause of action.

In response to questions propounded by her counsel, T. Morris Wampler, the plaintiff told of the alleged domination of her husband's parents over her husband and herself which she said she felt in numerous ways. The elder Voigts did everything they could, it was testified, to convince their son that his wife was not good enough for him. The trial will be resumed this morning.

711th Magna Charter Day to Be Observed

The 711th anniversary of the signing of Magna Charta will be celebrated tonight at 8:15 o'clock by the District branch of the International Magna Charta Day association by a dinner in the Lafayette hotel, at which Associate Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the Supreme Court, will be spokesman for the District. The seven nations that speak the English language will celebrate today.

Other speakers will include Brig. Gen. Amos A. Fries, U. S. A.; Rear Admiral Elliott Snow and Maj. Thomas Thacker, U. S. M. C., spokesmen for the three branches of the nation's military service.

Man Is Found Dead In Gas-Filled Room

John E. Brown, 61 years old, a roomer at 2716 M street northwest, was found dead in a room on the third floor of his home yesterday afternoon by other roomers, who were attracted to his room by the odor of gas. Deputy Coroner Joseph Rogers was notified and gave a certificate of death from gas poisoning.

According to Brown, who had been ill and despondent recently, was last seen alive Saturday night. When roomers broke into his room they found a gas jet on and the door and window cracks stuffed.

certified copies of his records which showed that $253,659.72 had gone through the bank and $231,295 in cash had been paid.

Asked why he had so large a cash account, Mr. Watson explained that he had not thought there would be any senatorial investigation and had used cash because of particular reasons pertaining to Pennsylvania records. In other words, Mr. Watson made it clear that in a political battle of this kind in Pennsylvania there were contributions which were better made in cash than through bank records, not because there was anything questionable about the transactions, but simply because that was part of the game. Mr. Watson's son, Thomas F. Watson, Jr., appeared briefly as a witness and explained how he carried $55,000 for his father to Mr. Kenna, the Vire coalition manager in Pittsburgh.

It was explained that Mr. Watson, Sr., contributed $25,000 to the Vire campaign, while Thomas W. Cunningham, treasurer of the Republican State committee and an old Pennrose leader of Philadelphia, contributed $50,000.

Wet Contributions Denied.

Questions by Senator King addressed to Mr. Watson, Jr., brought out some of the comedy incidents which preceded Representative Vire's appearance on the stand. Mr. Watson denied flatly statements from Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Slavery league, that wet leaders had contributed money to the Vire campaign.

"Was there not a wet meeting held?" Senator King persisted. "Yes, there was," the witness replied. "In the Academy of Music."

"That was my meeting," interposed Senator Reed, while the audience laughed.

This was the meeting at which Senator Reed spoke prior to the vote and was organized for the benefit of the senator from Missouri. Somebody at the end of the meeting offered a resolution endorsing Vire at that meeting so that Senator Reed's own activities in Pennsylvania had at least something to do with Vire's election.

"What is the fact as to whether any drys supported Mr. Vire?" asked Senator King.

"I don't know of any," was the reply.

Tells of Candidacy.

Representative Vire took the stand at 10:04 p. m. He began by explaining that he was a contractor, besides being a member of Congress for fourteen years. In February, he said, he conferred with some of his friends and decided to become a candidate.

While Mr. Folwell was on the stand, Senator Reed asked him if the receipts were not all made out at one time, on the same typewriter. Mr. Folwell said he did not think so and after examining the receipts he said he could not detect the same similarity which Mr. Reed thought apparent. But later Mr. Gorman explained that the receipts were all made out at the same time and given to Mr. Grundy after June 6.

After the afternoon session Mr. Gorman stated from his books that the total expenditures of his committee had been $480,504.07 and that there were outstanding bills aggregating $133,650.26, making a total of $614,154.33 for this committee alone.

Mr. Vire then explained that every cent of the $71,000 he had personally expended was for sending letters and appeals to voters. All the money, he said, had gone for letters, stamps and literature.

"And in no case," he added, "did I use my Congressional frank."

He canvassed 44,000 square miles of territory and sought to reach 2,500,000 voters, he added.

With the press against him, his only chance to win was by personal appeal. Despite these efforts, he added, he carried only one county outside of Philadelphia.

Ignorant of Expenditures.

Replying to questions, Mr. Vire said he did not keep close track of what the Vire coalition ticket was doing, nor did he know how much money was being raised or how much was being spent. This started Senator King's desperate attempt to discredit this part of Mr. Vire's testimony. At 11:05 Senator Reed undertook to supplement Mr. King's efforts. But after 10 minutes, Mr. Reed gave it up temporarily and adjourned the session until 10 o'clock today.

Sensor Reed, of Missouri, chairman of the committee, announced during the afternoon that a new total of $1,837,410 had been reached. But just before adjournment of the afternoon session Senator La Follette announced that he had provided the figures upon which Senator Reed relied and that the figures were incorrect.

"For the present we will stand on the old total of $1,422,000," said Senator La Follette.

Much of the day's testimony was devoted to analyzing evidence which Joseph R. Grundy, "angel" of the Pepper-Fisher ticket, already had offered and which was reproduced in detail by William H. Folwell, of Philadelphia, treasurer of the Republican citizens' campaign committee, and Frank J. Gorman, secretary, who handled the funds and kept the books for the committee. An interesting sidelight on Pennsylvania politics was disclosed when Mr. Gorman explained how the contributions from Mr. Grundy came in.

Contributions From Grundy.

"When was the first money you received from Mr. Grundy given?" asked Senator Reed.

"Third of April, 1926."

"What was the amount?"

"$5,000."

"In what form?"

"Check."

"What bank?"

"I don't know."

"Next money from Mr. Grundy?"

"Ninth of April."

"Amount?"

"$8,160."

"In what form?"

"Think it was check."

"Next?"

"Tenth of April, following day."

"How much?"

"$18,240."

"Check or cash?"

"That was in cash."

"Handed to you by Mr. Grundy in person?"

"I think so."

"Why this amount?"

"That was the schedule prepared for registration day clerks and canvassers to get out the vote."

"Then these were wads of money turned over to ward leaders?"

"They were contributions turned over to the ward committee."

"Did Mr. Grundy tell you where he got this money?"

"He just produced," suggested Senator Reed, adding, "Next?"

"April 14."

"Amount?"

"$20,000."

"Why this amount?"

"General needs of the treasury. We needed $12,500 for postage and $6,418.17 for advertising and these amounts had to be paid."

"Next?"

"April 19."

"How much?"

"$6,000."

"What for?"

"General needs of the treasury."

"Next?"

"April 22."

"Amount?"

"$20,000."

"Cash or check?"

"I don't recall."

"For what purpose?"

"For advertising $4,984.88 and bills being paid all the time."

"Next?"

"April 26."

"Amount?"

"Ten thousand dollars."

"Cash or credit?"

"I don't recall."

"Purpose?"

"Same purpose."

To save Senator Reed the trouble of asking even these one-word questions and awaiting the brief answers of the witness, the remaining Grundy contributions were then told as follows:

May 1, $10,000; May 3, $10,000; May 4, $8,000; May 6, $10,000; May 7, $23,175; May 8, $10,000; May 10, $25,000; May 11, $10,000; May 13, $15,000; May 14, $25,000; May 25, $10,000; June 5, $55,000.

This made a total of $291,575 which the "angel" of the Pepper ticket handed in day by day as occasion required.

"What is the fact as to whether any drys supported Mr. Vire?" asked Senator King.

"I don't know of any," was the reply.

Ignorant of Expenditures.

Replying to questions, Mr. Vire said he did not keep close track of what the Vire coalition ticket was doing, nor did he know how much money was being raised or how much was being spent. This started Senator King's desperate attempt to discredit this part of Mr. Vire's testimony. At 11:05 Senator Reed undertook to supplement Mr. King's efforts. But after 10 minutes, Mr. Reed gave it up temporarily and adjourned the session until 10 o'clock today.

Sensor Reed, of Missouri, chairman of the committee, announced during the afternoon that a new total of $1,837,410 had been reached. But just before adjournment of the afternoon session Senator La Follette announced that he had provided the figures upon which Senator Reed relied and that the figures were incorrect.

"For the present we will stand on the old total of $1,422,000," said Senator La Follette.

Much of the day's testimony was devoted to analyzing evidence which Joseph R. Grundy, "angel" of the Pepper-Fisher ticket, already had offered and which was reproduced in detail by William H. Folwell, of Philadelphia, treasurer of the Republican citizens' campaign committee, and Frank J. Gorman, secretary, who handled the funds and kept the books for the committee. An interesting sidelight on Pennsylvania politics was disclosed when Mr. Gorman explained how the contributions from Mr. Grundy came in.

Contributions From Grundy.

"When was the first money you received from Mr. Grundy given?" asked Senator Reed.

"Third of April, 1926."

"What was the amount?"

"$5,000."

"In what form?"

"Check."

"What bank?"

"I don't know."

"Next money from Mr. Grundy?"

"Ninth of April."

"Amount?"

"$8,160."

"In what form?"

"Think it was check."

"Next?"

"Tenth of April, following day."

"How much?"

"$18,240."

"Check or cash?"

TWO MORE ALLIGATORS ARE FOUND IN POTOMAC

EXPERTS ARE PUZZLED

Along with bathing suits of many colors, the hot weather has encouraged a very odd class of bathers to take to the tepid waters of the Potomac.

This creature is neither man, nor crocodile, but an alligator, the bureau of fisheries, it could not possibly breed in these waters. Yet, apparently, a great many alligators have somehow gotten into the Potomac river.

The bureau explains that they must be escaped pets. But nobody has ventured to explain why so many pets are escaping. There is a contrast between the alligator stories and the alligators actually caught. Discounting the fact that the stories are legion, two additional alligators were actually caught yesterday.

Harry Hall, an employee of the R. F. & P. railroad, sighted and shot a "queer-looking fish" in the Potomac about 4 miles south of Washington yesterday. When he hauled in the "fish" he discovered that it was an alligator, and only stunned by the shot. It weighed 75 pounds and measured more than 4 feet long.

H. P. Lansburgh, dealer in fish at the municipal wharf, purchased a 3-foot alligator yesterday from a fisherman who explained that he had taken it in a net along with a number of fish in the Potomac south of Washington.

Boiling field state that the alligators had been captured in the Anacostia river. One of these, a 3-foot reptile, was turned over to the police, and the other four, it was explained, were kept at Bolling field.

W. B. KILPATRICK DIES FOLLOWING OPERATION

Aid to Assistant Secretary of Treasury Succumbs at Georgetown Hospital.

W. B. Kilpatrick, first assistant to the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, died at the Georgetown University hospital, where he had lingered for ten days following an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Kilpatrick was 59 years old, and had held the position in the Treasury about 16 years. He was born in Noyaxater, Miss., and was educated in Lebanon college, Lebanon, Ohio. He held a position in New York before coming to Washington.

He was a Mason and of the Shrine, being a member of the Masonic lodge of Bethesda, Md. Funeral services will be held from his home in Friendship Heights, Md. Interment will be in Bethesda. Full arrangements have not been made, it was announced.

Mr. Kilpatrick is survived by his daughter, Mrs. William T. Carrigan, of New York, and by four brothers, Theodore Tuller, Atlanta Journal; Mark L. Goodwin, Dallas News; Paul Weston, New Orleans Times-Picayune; George W. Summers, Wheeling Register; Robert M. Lynn, Richmond News-Leader; Gladstone Williams, correspondent; Jonathan Daniels, Raleigh News and Observer; George W. Combs, Lynchburg News; K. Foster Murray, Norfolk Virginian-Pilot; Hugh W. Roberts, Birmingham Age-Herald; P. H. McGowan, Macon News; R. E. Powell, Durham Morning Herald, and Mark Foote, correspondent.

A special committee representing the National Press club attended the funeral, as follows: Ulric Bell, president of the club, representing the Louisville Courier-Journal; Theodore Tuller, Atlanta Journal; Mark L. Goodwin, Dallas News; Paul Weston, New Orleans Times-Picayune; George W. Summers, Wheeling Register; Robert M. Lynn, Richmond News-Leader; Gladstone Williams, correspondent; Jonathan Daniels, Raleigh News and Observer; George W. Combs, Lynchburg News; K. Foster Murray, Norfolk Virginian-Pilot; Hugh W. Roberts, Birmingham Age-Herald; P. H. McGowan, Macon News; R. E. Powell, Durham Morning Herald, and Mark Foote, correspondent.

Funeral services for Miss Ella Clare Butler, who died at her home in Cathedral Mansions early Sunday, will be conducted at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Philip G. Affleck, in the same apartment building, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Interment, which will be private, will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Miss Butler died suddenly, although she had been in delicate health for several years. She was the daughter of the late Rev. J. G. Butler, for many years pastor of the Luther Place Memorial church. Surviving her, besides Mrs. Affleck, and the Rev. Dr. C. N. Butler, pastor of Columbia Heights Lutheran church, both of this city.

CLAUDE N. BENNETT FUNERAL

Last Rites Held for Congressional Information Bureau Founder.

Funeral services for Claude N. Bennett, 59 years old, founder and president of the Congressional Information bureau, and widely known as author and lecturer, were conducted in Gawler's chapel, 1732 Pennsylvania avenue, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Rev. William A. Lambert officiated. The body was sent to Thomson, Ga., for burial.

A special committee representing the National Press club attended the funeral, as follows: Ulric Bell, president of the club, representing the Louisville Courier-Journal; Theodore Tuller, Atlanta Journal; Mark L. THE PRESIDENT OF HAITI.

The President of Haiti, Mr. Louis Borno, is a welcome visitor to Washington. He comes on a mission of good will and is received in that spirit. His task in administering Haitian affairs during the transition period calls for the exercise of patience and foresight, on account of the tendency of some Haitians to misconstrue the intentions of the United States. Politicians and speculators are finding it difficult, however, to fool the people of Haiti, who are witnessing the development of their country under American auspices. Roads, schools, hospitals, public buildings, model farms, sewers, canals, harbor works, waterworks, telegraphs, telephones, electric light and power plants, and other improvements are bringing Haiti up to the standards of civilization, and this at relatively small cost. The services of the United States government are freely given to Haiti, for the sole purpose of befriending that republic and assisting it to restore a stable and prosperous government.

The process seems slow to some Haitians who are impatient to exercise all the prerogatives of citizenship, including lucrative office-holding. Nevertheless, the better classes fully appreciate what the United States is doing and are cooperating cheerfully in the work of development. Needless to say, the resources of the island are becoming more accessible daily. The country is so productive that its people can become very prosperous under good government; and there is every assurance that within a few years a native government will be able to function successfully.

In the meantime such patriotic citizens as President Borno are working faithfully, with a clear understanding of the purpose of the United States, and with complete confidence in the intention of this government to withdraw in due time and leave Haiti entirely in the hands of its own people, as has been done in the case of Cuba and Santo Domingo.

Another good test of will power is to finish June as a bachelor.

HELEN WILLS—PERFECT WOMAN.

The news from France that Helen Wills, America's woman tennis champion, is recovering so rapidly from a recent operation for appendicitis that she will be able to resume play on the courts within a month, will be read with much satisfaction by Americans everywhere. It was feared that her illness would make impossible a meeting with her great French rival, Miss Suzanne Lenglen, at any time this year. Now, however, it is quite likely that the American girl will be in condition to cross racquets with Suzanne in the English matches in August.

Another cause for gratification to Americans is the report of Dr. Thierry de Martel, reputed to be the greatest surgeon in France, who declares that the American champion is the finest specimen of girlhood he has ever seen. He found, he said, that Miss Wills' unusual muscular development permitted the removal of an appendix for the first time in the history of French surgery—possibly of the world—without cutting the abdominal muscles. When an incision was made the surgeon was able to pry aside the right abdominal muscle and reach the appendix underneath, whereas ordinarily a surgeon is obliged to make a horizontal incision in this muscle. He described Miss Wills as not only a wonderful athlete, and physically a 100 per cent specimen of girlhood, but as one of the most serenely brave characters he has ever known. Her moderate mode of life, calm temper and devotion to sport have made her body perfect.

Man has a hard time. The more he is capable of making, the more he is capable of wanting.

TREATMENT OF PNEUMONIA.

Physicians believe that the dread disease pneumonia within a few years will be accompanied by as few fatalities as diphtheria. After 30 years of intensive study investigators are close to a specific cure, it was announced at the convention of the American Therapeutic society in Philadelphia last week. Dr. Frank M. Hinton stated that the results of experiments have demonstrated that "antibodies" will so control the dissemination of the blood poisoning, which is the real danger from pneumonia, that the chance of recovery will be 92 per cent as against 50 per cent a few years ago.

Antibodies are the elements with which nature has provided the human body for its struggle with the diseases to which it is subject. Dr. Hinton has spent six years in laboratory work in an effort to perfect a serum for the cure of pneumonia, and the results thus far obtained, he says, have been such as to forecast the early perfection of an effective weapon with which to fight the disease.

It has already been proved that the use of this serum is highly effective when it is administered in the early stages of pneumonia.

Doctors in attendance on the sessions of the medical society recalled that in 1905, when toxin-antitoxin for diphtheria was being discussed by the profession, the effectiveness of the specific was widely questioned because many physicians failed to cure their patients who had reached an advanced stage of the disease. Now, it is said, no physician would think of failing to administer the serum in a case of diphtheria early in the disease.

Another successful treatment for pneumonia, it was stated, is that of injecting a small quantity of triple distilled water into the veins of a patient. Many cures have followed the treatment of pneumonia by this method.

Pneumonia is the cause of a greater percentage of deaths than any other malady. For many years it has baffled physicians. It appears now that medical science is slowly but surely working out a cure.

How time flies! Only yesterday a girl was happy if you bought her a lemonade.

INLAND WATERWAYS CORPORATION.

Up to 1923 Congress had appropriated about three-quarters of a million dollars in its efforts to create navigable streams and canals, but without tempting private enterprise into the field of water transport. Then Congress established the Inland Waterways Corporation, with an authorized capital of $5,000,000, a government agency capable of conducting its affairs on a strictly business basis, and of showing the way for private capital to enter the same field.

The law, it is said, gives the corporation wider powers than are possessed by any other government corporation. The Secretary of War has a chief of an advisory board to whom he delegates the active work. The purpose of the corporation is to demonstrate to shippers the advantages and economies of waterways.

The corporation has total investments of more than $11,548,000, and last year it had a net income of about $498,000, with a traffic of more than 1,150,000 tons. There are two divisions—the Mississippi and the Warrior divisions—and business in both divisions is expanding.

If it's like work, only harder, and you get no pay for it, it's recreation.

THE DILEMMA OF THE SOUTH.

It appears from current events that the senators from the South are in a dilemma over the principle involved in the radical farm relief bill before the Senate.

The principal argument offered in favor of the measure is that it gives to the farmers the practical measure of protection which, it is claimed, they do not receive under the present tariff law.

Some Southern senators refuse to support the measure unless cotton is made one of the basic commodities; yet there is no duty on cotton, hence there can be no failure now of cotton raisers to receive their portion of protection. Other Southern senators refuse to support the measure unless the operation of the equalization fee is postponed at least two years, so far as cotton is concerned. Receiving no tariff protection, they refuse to pay the equalization fee to help the producers of other basic commodities.

Still other Southern senators refuse to vote for the measure because it is, indirectly, an endorsement of the principle of protection, wholly contrary to the traditional position of the Southern Democrats. To bolster up his plan, Senator McNary had read in the Senate a telegram from the Mississippi Farm Bureau Cotton association urging Southern senators to vote for the McNary-Haugen bill.

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, replied immediately:

I am sure that notwithstanding the views of the directors of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Cotton association, these gentlemen, or the farmers of Mississippi, would expect me to justify myself by voting for a farm-relief proposal, if in my opinion it is unconstitutional, and contains provisions that are contrary to the principles in which I have believed and for which I have spoken during a lifetime. So, notwithstanding the suggestion of these directors, my friends, I shall not vote for this unconstitutional and very unsound proposal.

Those Southern Democrats who support the McNary-Haugen proposal are on untenable ground. A vote for that measure is an indirect vote for the principle of protection, which Southern Democrats as a rule have repudiated always.

Obviously the principle involved in this matter over which the Senate is now struggling is economic, not political.

What we can't understand is how the Americans got away from the pole without a souvenir.

BRITISH STRIKE REACTIONS.

There is apparently some doubt as to which of the British political parties has been least hurt by the recent general strike. It was thought at first that the conservative administration had gained credit from the intrepid way in which it confronted an unparalleled situation and from the mastery strategy with which it brought a national menace to a sudden collapse. It was also thought that the labor party was bound to suffer heavily from disgruntlement, in its own more radical ranks, over the alleged ineptitude of the leaders and the supposedly cowardly haste with which they agreed to the calling off of the strike. At the same time, there was a rather remarkable consensus of opinion that the liberals, not being directly concerned, had come unscathed through the ordeal—that, if they had gained nothing, they had at least lost nothing.

Subsequent events, however, following each other in rapid succession, showed that, to a very large extent, these calculations were all awry. It was the general strike that brought to a head the differences which have for so long existed among the chief liberals, and was thus the instrument that rent the party in twain. Unless prudential considerations intervene for the patching up of peace at this week's meeting of the national liberal federation, the liberal organization will remain disrupted and discredited.

In the conservative ranks there was also discontent, especially among the "die-hards," but its manifestations were kept under, and the Baldwin administration seemed to have secured public approval and, with it, a new lease of life. Two recent elections, however, would rather tend to show that such a view is illusory. For a parliamentary vacancy in North Hammersmith, which went conservative by 2,000 majority in 1924, a Baldwin candidate stood, with the general strike as the main issue, and he was defeated by a laborite by a majority of 3,600. Similarly, at a municipal election for the Ladywood division of Birmingham, a Chamberlain stronghold, which had previously gone conservative by a majority of 4,500, the labor candidate, who appealed for votes as a protest against government methods in the general strike, won over his conservative opponent by a majority of more than 1,100.

If these signs of the times count for anything, it is evident that the labor party is not the one which lost most prestige during the recent troubles in Britain.

If a man scorns everything, you can't tell whether he's an intellectual of just a grouch.

UNUSUAL INTELLIGENCE.

There is one prohibition agent who should be decorated with the distinguished service medal by the Secretary of War. Now that colleges are honoring officials of the government by conferring high degrees for unsurpassed intelligence, one of those sheepskins with the accompanying "mortar board" should be reserved for the prohibition agent at Tampa, Fla. For the last five years this wise public servant has had in his possession 40 barrels of the finest kind of rye whisky. It was captured off the coast of Florida after having been shipped out of the United States under a permit. But the shippers never had any intention of allowing this nectar to get away from the country of its origin. They figured on bringing it back for home consumption. They tried it, and were caught in the act. The liquor was confiscated by order of the court, and for five years it has been mellowing in the wood. Not desiring to have the priceless stuff turned into the sewers, the prohibition agent suggested that the surgeon general of the army might be able to find use for 40 barrels of "rare liquor testing 120 proof."

Would the surgeon general accept it for medical purposes? Would he? The surgeon general certainly would not allow such an opportunity to bring comfort and health to army patients to slip by through any procrastination on his part. An official communique issued from his office on Saturday announces that he requested the War Department to authorize the acceptance of the whisky, and the department, in turn, has asked for its transfer from the warehouse to the medical department of the army.

The navy and marine corps will each share in the distribution. To be dangerously ill and in an army or navy hospital will be joy enough for any one who is entitled to wear a uniform. Think of it—120 proof!

THE LEGAL GRIST OF '26.

Some years ago a resident of the city of New York being desirous of obeying the laws of his State employed an expert observer to keep him posted on all legislative enactments of the solons gathered in Albany. After one session of the legislature he gave up the useless attempt to keep up with the lawmaking body. He came to the conclusion that no ordinary human has the power to absorb the necessary information to enable him to live up to all the changes in the laws which one session of a legislature can make.

There were some 40 legislatures in session during the early months of 1925. The 40 law-making bodies succeeded in enacting 11,000 new laws. That was considered to be a record. But it is not to be compared with the activities of the sessions of 1926, proportionately. This year there were only ten legislatures in session, and complete reports of their legal crops have not all been returned, but up to date the records indicate that 4,100 laws have been enacted.

These figures do not include any of the work of Congress, and as the House in a single session of less than three hours gave its approval to 161 bills, the indications are that the national solons will be able to announce that "we, too, have not been idle."

MILITARY TRAINING.

The testimony before the House military affairs committee on what is known as the Welsh anti-compulsory military training bill is attracting considerable attention. The admitted purpose of the bill, in the words of Mr. Welsh, is to democratize the educational institutions of the country by taking from the present law the provision that makes military training compulsory in schools and colleges.

The bill also amends the national defense act of 1916, amended in 1920, which provides that the President may establish a course of military training in any civil educational institution where the authorities of that institution agree to maintain a two-year course which shall be either compulsory or elective. It is proposed to make military training in schools and colleges purely optional. It is believed by the supporters of the bill that military training should not be forced upon an unwilling person.

This proposal opens up the whole question of the duties of citizenship, of national defense and of the physical and mental value of a military training. Experience shows that a reasonable amount of military training raises the standard of health and morals. If none of it is to be compulsory, then the whole scheme rests upon the desire and option of youths and young men, who, because of age, presumably are unable to appreciate the value and ultimate purpose of obedience, regularity and responsibility in life's work.

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by John Kemp, an insurance man of New York. John insures an awful lot of Actors, and the funny thing about it is that John can get you more for an Actor dead than the Actor can get for himself alive. John told me one day what he could get on me, and I come pretty near taking it out. If I had been certain that I was going to die in the next few days I would have taken it out, for it was more than I could ever hope to earn living. Then when I left all this money it would have looked like I was a great Actor.

I don't know how he does it. He evidently gets companies that never saw Actors act. John told me of one funny experience that he had of an Actor who had died and the Company had written his wife several times about more details as to how he died. Finally she wrote them, "I have had so much trouble about my money and writing how he died, that really, sometimes I just wish he hadn't died at all."

Mr. Bull's Dear Friend.

PRESS COMMENT.

Men's Dress.

Philadelphia Inquirer: As summer comes the eternal question of men's dress is again debated. Women are not similarly troubled. They wear thin clothes appropriate to the season. The Palm Beach suit has helped the men to some extent, but the wearing of a coat out of doors on the sultriest day persists.

Yet if a man discards unsightly braces and wears a belt why should he not go coatless even in the city streets? Only prejudice compels him to suffer needlessly discomfort. Why shouldn't men be as sensible as women in this respect?

A Sporting Wager.

Minneapolis Journal: Gov. "Ma" Ferguson, and Attorney General Dan Moody, who are running against each other in the Texas Democratic primary for governor, have made an unusual wager. They don't call it a bet, but that is what it amounts to.

Mrs. Ferguson—no doubt at the instigation of her husband, Jim Ferguson, the real governor—challenged Mr. Moody to promise to resign his office if he receives fewer votes than she does in the first primary, July 24. On her part, she offered to resign the governorship if Mr. Moody should outrun her by 25,000 votes. This challenge was promptly accepted by Mr. Moody.

Toll of Carelessness.

Louisville Courier-Journal: In an impromptu competition near Lexington, Ky., the other day, human frailty won a spectacular triumph over nature. Lightning took toll of two farm houses, but a lighted cigar butt started a blaze which burned a swath 2 miles wide and 3 miles long. It took 200 men 24 hours to control what the culprit could have pinched out with his fingers in a second.

Glory of Bigness.

Brooklyn Eagle: That monster British motor car, 1,000 horsepower, 24 cylinders, 48 spark plugs and 8 carburetors, is expected to go 200 miles an hour. It is precisely the thing we hope never to see flashing along the Merrick road or even on Fifth avenue, Manhattan. The glory of bigness is rarely worth while.

Price of Junk.

New York Telegraph: Former Comptroller Craig offers the Fourth, Eighth, Ninth and Madison avenue surface car lines to the city for $7,000,000, establishing a new top price for junk.

Non-Coms.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Over 50 per cent of the enlisted personnel of the regular army now are noncommissioned officers, the War Department reports. It should be the policy of the department to have at least two buck privates on duty at every post to keep the non-coms from rusting out, and to relieve each other.

How About Lowden?

Minneapolis Journal: Minnesota editor nominates F. W. Murphy of Wheaton, for President on a farm relief platform. It's all right with us, but what will Gov. Lowden say?

Old-Fashioned Religion.

Richmond Times-Dispatch: There are still a few old-fashioned people who contend that true religion doesn't depend on either fundamentalism or modernism.

The Big Four.

St. Louis Post Dispatch: Wilson is asleep—far beyond the reach of calumny or laudation. Echoes of the great world rarely penetrate the solitude of the Vendee, where Clemenceau dwells in peasant simplicity, writing the memoirs that are to be buried a century before publication. Orlando has disappeared from the stage—shooed

Engineers and Agitators

By GLEN FRANK.

SILENTLY but surely the business man is bringing about an industrial revolution more profound and far-reaching in its changes than the industrial revolution promoted by the bolshevik.

I use the term "business man" very loosely to cover all the forces and factors of modern machine industry.

One of the clearest and most challenging interpretations of the possible social ministry of technical progress that I know is in a little German book called "Apologie der Technik" by Richard Nicholas Coudenhove-Kalergi. I hope some American publisher will give us a good translation of this important little volume. American business men will get further by following the counsel of this book than by "fighting reds."

I quote a few passages in which he speaks of the sort of "revolution" the captains of industry, the engineers, and the inventors might bring about, in contrast to the sort of revolution the political agitator usually tries to produce.

"The true champions of the masses in this revolution," he says, "are our engineers and inventors. At our stage of historical evolution the inventor is a greater benefactor of humanity than the saint."

"The inventor of the automobile has benefited horses more, has saved them from toil and suffering, than all the world's societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals."

"The discoverer of the diphtheria serum has saved the lives of more children than all our children's hospitals."

"We no longer have galley slaves, because they have been emancipated by the inventors of the marine engine. The use of fuel oil has redeemed an army of stokers from the inferno of the stovehole."

"But no communist dictator can relieve men from one ounce of human exertion, or a single moment of subterranean toil."

"The ultimate end of technical progress is to provide every man with the comforts and conveniences that are today reserved for millionaires. Therefore the inventors and the engineers are fighting war and poverty; they are not fighting wealth. They are fighting slavery; they are not fighting rulers."

"Their object is to universalize wealth, power, leisure, beauty, happiness."

"Their ideal is not to make all mankind a proletariat, but to make it an aristocracy."

"A high standard of living is of more real value than equality. It is better for all to be prosperous and a few to be rich, than for all to sink back to a common level of poverty. Best of all, of course, would be universal wealth. But that is an achievement for the future, not for the present, and only technical progress can bring it about."

These random sentences suggest that business men, engineers, and inventors have it within their power to effect a far-reaching social renewal as well as to make profits. And that should interest a man in whom the sense of high adventure is not wholly dead.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Treatment of Homesteaders.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In this morning's Post under a Phoenix, (Ariz.) date line appears an Associated Press dispatch to the effect that Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work was hanged in effigy on the Black Canyon road, about 20 miles northwest of Phoenix, yesterday for his act in cancelling a large number of Verde river irrigation permits because of non-compliance with the law by entrymen, as pointed out in reports submitted to him by trained and honest inspectors who hold their positions through civil service certification and not political influence.

Knowing the facts, I have no hesitancy in denouncing this act as not only an outrage against an honorable public servant, who sought to protect the nation he so well served, but against the nation as a whole.

From January, 1923, to March 15 last, when I resigned of my own volition, I was employed as special agent in charge of the land office and inspector for the Department of the Interior and checked homestead entries in every county in the State of New Mexico and can truthfully testify that nowhere can there be found fairer men to the homesteader than Secretary Work, Assistant Secretary Finney and Gov. Spry, commissioner of the general land office. Invariably they give the homesteader every consideration in passing on protested or contested entries. Furthermore, inspectors, whose duty requires them to investigate and report upon final proofs submitted by homesteaders, seldom fail to give the homesteader the big end of the bargain, because they realize the very hard conditions under which homesteaders labor in the arid districts of the West. Even when the facts compel inspectors to report adversely upon homestead claims the officials at Washington in their great desire to aid in building up the waste places ignore recommendations to cancel and order the issuance of patents. I am sure, therefore, that Secretary Work in this instance had no other recourse open to him. I feel sure, judging from past experience, that the law was so flagrantly ignored by the claimants that there was no loophole through which he could escape cancellation.

I am well acquainted with the inspectors upon which Secretary Work acted and can testify to their ability, honesty and fair-mindedness. I am sure they would not submit adverse reports unless the facts are overwhelmingly against the claimants. There must have been a preponderance of evidence that the law had not been complied with in the Arizona cases.

My experience is that inspectors investigating public land matters much prefer making favorable reports in all cases where it is possible to do so. Favorable reports make no trouble for inspectors. Unfavorable reports, in many instances, make all kinds of trouble (political and otherwise) for investigating officers.

Honest people, regardless of political faith, should resent this insult to the Secretary of the Interior and uphold the fearless field men of the government who, on small salaries, undergo all kinds of danger and hardships in their efforts to save the public domain from big land grabbers seeking through dummy entrymen and other crooked methods to obtain it.

Instead of being hanged in effigy Secretary Work deserves the thanks and plaudits of the American people for his untiring efforts to prevent our public lands falling into the hands of thieves.

ARTS COMMISSION FOR COURT BUILDING
IN JUDICIARY SQUARE

Chairman Moore Outlines
Plans in Letter to Senator Capper.

URGES ALL TRIBUNALS
PLACED IN ONE GROUP

Beautiful Elms Would Be Saved by Following Proposed Location.

Ideas of the commission of fine arts on the District court construction program, requesting the inclusion of the municipal court in Judiciary square, were conveyed to Senator Capper, of the Senate District committee, yesterday by Chairman Charles Moore, of the commission.

His letter states: "The plan of 1901 contemplates assembling all the courts of the District of Columbia in Judiciary square. Chief Justice McCoy, when asked if he considered the municipal court one of the courts which should go into that square, replied that he did. With him and Judge Schuldt, I went over the ground in Judiciary square and we were all agreed that the most convenient location for the building would be in the space between E and F streets as prolonged into the square. The building should stand on a line with the building of the Court of Appeals, and should be of the same character architecturally and structurally. This does not mean that the building will not be larger than that of the Court of Appeals, but it should have a family likeness to that building and should be one of the group.

Simple in Design.

"The District Supreme Court building, while very simple in its design, is considered by architects

THE President received at the White House yesterday at 6 o'clock the President of Haiti, Mr. Borno, and Mrs. Coolidge received Mrs. Borno. At 6:30 o'clock, the President and Mrs. Coolidge were received at the legation of Haiti, where the President and Mrs. Borno are guests.

The Ambassador of Japan, Mr. Matsudaira, departed yesterday evening for Springfield, Ill., where he will attend a luncheon to be given by the Midway Luncheon club Thursday.

The Minister of China, Mr. Sze, who departed last week for Ithaca, N. Y., to attend a class reunion at Cornell university, will return to Washington today.

Mme. Ollins, wife of the counsel or of the legation of Latvia, will depart Thursday evening for New York, whence she will sail on the one of the best buildings in Washington. Within the past few years it was restored and put in absolute good order in the office of the architect of the Capitol. Also a new building for the Court of Appeals was constructed in harmony with the District Supreme Court building. The proposed police court building would be another element in the quadrangle. The cost of the building should be $1,000,000. All of this money will go into actual construction. No ornamental features are contemplated. It would be impossible to design a more simple building than the commission contemplates. The location of the building on a line with the Court of Appeals as proposed would save the beautiful elms which extend along Fifth street in Judiciary square. A number of trees would be displaced, but the best of these trees can be moved.

"The commission of fine arts will meet Thursday and the report I am making to you is in line with the ideas of the commission as already expressed.

Present Building Inadequate.

Relating to the police court, Chairman Moore writes: "The present police court is badly planned, inadequate and dirty. It can not be kept clean. I know from personal experience that the conditions in the traffic court are disgraceful and unspeakably bad. A court should stand for the order of administration of justice. At present there is no way to prevent the herding of all sorts and conditions of people. These conditions have been set forth in the Washington newspapers."

Fortune.

TRUST FUNDS CREATED

Theodore Schwan, who died May 27, left an estate valued at approximately $500,000, according to the petition for letters testamentary filed yesterday in probate court by the Union Trust Co. and W. L. Miller, executors. The residuary legatees under the will are Jennie Abbott and Clara Slaymaker, both of St. Paul, Minn., sisters-in-law of the testator.

Heinrich Kropp, a nephew of Germany, is given $30,000, and the sum of $25,000 is given to another nephew, Paul Schwan, of Cleveland, Ohio. Emma Kueckle, of Minneapolis, Minn., a niece, is given $10,000. Theodore S. Abbott, a nephew, is given $5,000. Gen. William T. Sibert and Maj. John O. Skinner, both of the United States army, are each given $1,000. Two $5,000 trust funds are created, one for the benefit of a nephew, Karl Schwan, and the other for the benefit of another nephew, Fritz Schwan. Other friends and relatives are remembered with cash bequests.

Gen. John B. McDonald, United States army, retired, who died March 15, left an estate valued at more than $31,601, according to the petition for letters testamentary filed by his sons, Robert B. and John B. McDonald, Jr. The estate includes the premises at 1735 P street northwest.

Yale Degree Is Given To Swedish Prince

New Haven, Conn., June 14 (By A. P.).—Gustavus Adolphus, Crown Prince of Sweden, became a Yale man tonight. He received the degree of doctor of laws at a special convocation. The prince, before this in his 23 years of life had held a special convocation. No other person of royal blood had been placed on its list as an alumnus.

James Rowland Angell, the president, conferred the degree after Professor William Lyon Phelps had presented the prince. The crown princess attended the ceremony.

Wesley Barry Weds
Actress at Newark

Newark, N. J., June 14 (By A. P.).—Wesley Barry, 18-year-old freckled Penrod of the movies, and Miss Julia Wood, dark-eyed vaudeville actress, were quietly married at the bride's home today. The couple left for Hollywood, Calif., shortly after the ceremony. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Edmonson, Presbyterian minister, of South Orange, and the only persons present were Barry's mother, Mrs. Martha Fyre, and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wood.

AMERICANS AWAIT ASCOT RACE MEET; RULERS TO ATTEND

Brilliant Display of Styles to Accompany Britain's Turf
Classic Today.

MANY HOUSE PARTIES
HAVE BEEN ARRANGED

Members of Royal Family,
Diplomats and Socially
Prominent on Hand.

London, June 14. (By A. P.)—The "Royal Ascot" racing meet, noted for its brilliancy since the days of Queen Anne, opens tomorrow with the aristocracy of Great Britain ready to lend color to the rich pageantry of the day.

From present indications more Americans than ever before will attend the meet, which continues four days and is featured by the appearance of the choicest thoroughbreds of the kingdom. Hundreds of citizens of other nations also will flock to the racing stands.

One of the most picturesque of the sights will be the elaborate processions of eight open carriages, in which the king and queen and the royal guests will ride over the race course to the grandstand each day.

King and Queen to Entertain.
King George and Queen Mary will entertain a large party at Windsor castle, including the Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles, who later will be joined by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and Prince Henry.

The Duke of Connaught has a large family gathering at Baginbush park, while Lord Dunsany will entertain a number of intimate friends at Hunningdale. Lord Londsdale is staying at the Grange. Many prominent Americans, resident in London, as well as Americans visiting here, will be in one or another of the many country homes engaged during the meet. The rents of these houses range well up to $2,000 for the week.

Society clubs such as the Marlborough, the Carlton, the Guards, the Cavalry and the Badminton had had special tents erected for their members and friends. Each tent is surrounded by specially prepared flower beds in miniature.

Costly Gowns Prepared.

For many weeks London modists have been creating frocks for this greatest "show week" of London society world. The Derby will be a costly and radiant affair, yet almost severe simplicity are the keywords for most of the gowns which will be seen on the lawns in front of the royal inclosure, if the weather is favorable.

Most women who can afford it will wear a new frock each day and even the average racegoer would think of wearing the same hat two days handrunning. Crepe de chine, chiffon and georgette, in practically every color, are the favorite materials. Most gowns are made on straight lines with a flare effect in many cases. Some have bishop sleeves and many have long sleeves at all. Black gowns, worn chiefly to show off diamonds, have soft fur collars and girdles of velvet ribbon held with a diamond buckle.

The majority of skirts are short and plain with long hems containing all sorts of fancy trimmings. Capes of the same material are considered almost necessary to complete the outfit. Hats range from small tight fitting ones to big wide brimmed affairs with veils and feathers. Parasols of every shade are fashionable.

Race Classics Scheduled.

The racing provides several valuable classics, including the Royal Hunt cup, the Ascot stakes, and the Gold cup. The total stakes amount to about $50,000. France has sent over a few horses to compete, but the number is smaller than last year.

Tomorrow's races include the Ascot stakes at 2 miles, for $2,000 and extras; the Gold vase at 2 miles, for $1,000, and the St. James Palace stakes at 1 mile, for $1,000. Cironach, Lancashire and Colvane may fight their derby battle all over again since all three are entered in this latter race.

Among the Americans who will be present tomorrow are Ambassadors and Mrs. Alanson B. Houghton, Miss Matilda Houghton, Miss Mary Landon Baker, of Chicago; Mrs. Boylston Beal, Mr. and Mrs. Cass Canfield, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. James Corrigan, Cleveland; Miss Helen Crocker, San Francisco; Mrs. Rhoda Doubleday, New York; and London; Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Foster, Boston and London; William Rauch, A. Kingsley Macomber, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glasgow, Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton Rice, Mr. and Mrs. James Van Allen and their son, James, of Newport; Robert Strabridge, Mr. and Mrs. William Scull, Philadelphia; Miss Rockefeller Strong, New York; Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Miss Mary Hoyt Wilbore.

Pitched Ball Causes Death.

SOME months ago, while the column was still in its infancy, we spoke of the value of appropriate spicing in cookery, especially in meat cookery. I said then that sometime in the future I wished to go into the matter of spices and their uses a little more in detail, and as a friend of the column has called my attention to the matter recently, and suggested that possibly not all of our readers were acquainted with the condiments that were frequently specified in our recipes, it will be well I think, not to delay longer in this matter of spicing.

To go into detail or give any of the colorful history and origin of the spices that come to us in their boxes would require many times the space of the column. Spices come largely from the East as we all know, and with the more common of them—clove, cinnamon, ginger, allspice, nutmeg, and mace we are undoubtedly familiar. The ones with which we may not be familiar, and which appear frequently in the recipes published in this department, are curry-powder, bay leaf, pepper-corns. Not many, but far-reaching in their result.

Briefly, curry-powder is a yellowish powder consisting largely of turmeric, a plant of the ginger family, the root of which is ground for dyeing purposes as well as for use as a spice. This root originally came from the East and Cochinchina. Bay leaf, merely the dried leaf of the bay tree, retains its pungent flavor when dried and releases it when moistened and crushed. It is especially well adapted for use in flavoring meats.

Pepper-corns are the dried berry of the climbing pepper shrub, and when ground they become black pepper. They may be added to the liquid in which a food is being prepared and give up their flavor, and be removed more readily than ground black pepper. Pepper-corns are preferable to black pepper also, in that some of the oil has been given up when the corn is ground, and this oil, present in the unground product, is of value as a spice.

Pepper-corns may be had by the dozen upon dozen for five cents, as may bay leaves. Curry powder is at the outside figure probably 15 cents a tin. These, as well as the more familiar spices, will not come amiss if they frequent the pantry shelf as religiously as the sugar and flour tins. They become indispensable in a very short time, and the home-maker who is fastidious about the flavor of her food, will wonder that she had been able to do without them. There are other condiments, to be sure, that would prove an advantage, if available, but they are not a necessity, as I do consider these three products. Maj. Grey's chutney is a delicious condiment that may be used with menu dishes other than its usual rice and curry, and walnut catsup, as well as A-1 sauce, are splendid to have at hand.

The best cuts of meat do not need spicing with their cooking, but the less expensive cuts, sometimes not as tender, and seldom endowed with much flavor of their own, do need assistance. A cheaper cut of meat, with proper cooking and seasoning, may be made a dish to serve a king. It is, therefore, a thrifty and intelligent housewife who investigates herbs and spices to discover in what manner they may be made to serve her.

We have discovered, and many readers have expressed their delight and surprise, that to all intent and purpose a baked ham may be had (at approximately a third the expense of the usual ham), by buying the small, smoked ham tenderloin. This tenderloin is cooked with molasses (or brown sugar), bay-leaf, clove, cinnamon, and pepper-corns. A large ham is cooked in like fashion, and, except in cost, quantity, and bone, there is no difference. They taste the same. The small ham is far easier to carve and less to dispose of in the small family. It is worth trying. On Saturday, some of us purchased a roast of beef. As this is Tuesday, and we are undoubtedly weary of our meat in its usual state, and as it is mostly odds and ends by now, let's dress it up a bit for today. I will give you with our menu, a recipe for beef espanol.

It is not the first beef espanol that we had, but another version, and also after the fashion of sunny Spain. They are under the same name, which is confusing, but I dislike to remedy the name given a dish, especially one of another country, when the donor of the name undoubtedly knew far more about his concoction than I can hope to learn.

A reader has requested a recipe for bordelaise sauce. I am going to give her Miss Farmer's. I can't very well make suggestions as to the ingredients, Mrs. S— these days and times, but possibly the recipe may be experimented with and still successful.

Bordelaise Sauce.
Cook one shallot, finely chopped, with one-fourth cup of claret until claret is reduced to two tablespoonfuls and strain. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one slice of onion and two slices of carrot, a sprig of parsley, a bit of bay leaf, eight peppercorns and one clove. When well browned add gradually one cup of brown stock. Strain, let simmer 8 minutes, add claret and one tablespoonful of butter. Season with salt and pepper. Remove marrow from a marrow bone and cut in one-third inch slices, then poach in boiling water. Arrange on and around steak, and pour around sauce.

MENUS.
Fruit Cup
Toast Squares
Olives
Beef Espanol
Steamed Rice
Hot Biscuit
Stuffed Tomatoes
Crackers
Coffee

Dice the remainder of the beef doing away with as much of the fat as possible. (Round steak, cut in small squares, may be substituted.) In an iron frying pan place a tablespoonful of butter and one medium sized onion thinly sliced. Add the meat, and brown it well. Salt and pepper the meat before it is removed from the frying-pan. Place the meat in the bottom of a casserole dish, and over the meat lay lengthwise slices of carrot, rings of green pepper, slices of lemon and slices of onion until the meat is well covered. Add one can of pimientos cut in small pieces and poked down among the pieces of meat. Place enough water to about fill the casserole dish in the frying pan, and bring it to a boil. Scraping the brown from the bottom of the pan into the water.

pour this over the ingredients in the casserole dish, and place the whole, closely covered, in a moderate oven for an hour, or until vegetables are done. Serve with steamed rice.

I am sorry, Mrs. K. J. C. but we cannot give diets for the purpose you require. I more than suggest you see a doctor, for I am afraid you have let a serious thing slide. We will help you work out the dishes on the diet when you have one, and be delighted to do so.

Our summer salads are literally descending upon us. And they seem to be delicious recipes. The rules will appear with each issue of the column, so there will, we hope, be no confusion or misunderstanding.

Mrs. Bannagan, will you call me on the telephone as soon as it is possible for you to do so, please?

Dice the remainder of the beef doing away with as much of the fat as possible. (Round steak, cut in small squares, may be substituted.) In an iron frying pan place a tablespoonful of butter and one medium sized onion thinly sliced. Add the meat, and brown it well. Salt and pepper the meat before it is removed from the frying-pan. Place the meat in the bottom of a casserole dish, and over the meat lay lengthwise slices of carrot, rings of green pepper, slices of lemon and slices of onion until the meat is well covered. Add one can of pimientos cut in small pieces and poked down among the pieces of meat. Place enough water to about fill the casserole dish in the frying pan, and bring it to a boil. Scraping the brown from the bottom of the pan into the water.

pour this over the ingredients in the casserole dish, and place the whole, closely covered, in a moderate oven for an hour, or until vegetables are done. Serve with steamed rice.

I am sorry, Mrs. K. J. C. but we cannot give diets for the purpose you require. I more than suggest you see a doctor, for I am afraid you have let a serious thing slide. We will help you work out the dishes on the diet when you have one, and be delighted to do so.

Our summer salads are literally descending upon us. And they seem to be delicious recipes. The rules will appear with each issue of the column, so there will, we hope, be no confusion or misunderstanding.

Mrs. Bannagan, will you call me on the telephone as soon as it is possible for you to do so, please?

to give her Miss Farmer's. I can't very well make suggestions as to the ingredients, Mrs. S— these days and times, but possibly the recipe may be experimented with and still successful.

Bordelaise Sauce.
Cook one shallot, finely chopped, with one-fourth cup of claret until claret is reduced to two tablespoonfuls and strain. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one slice of onion and two slices of carrot, a sprig of parsley, a bit of bay leaf, eight peppercorns and one clove. When well browned add gradually one cup of brown stock. Strain, let simmer 8 minutes, add claret and one tablespoonful of butter. Season with salt and pepper. Remove marrow from a marrow bone and cut in one-third inch slices, then poach in boiling water. Arrange on and around steak, and pour around sauce.

Tip Puts Over One

By N. BREWSTER MORSE.

"HEY, fellows!"

Tip called the gang about him and as usual, they waited for Tip to let them in on the big idea. Some boys are born to be artists or writers or musicians. Others come into the world eminently fitted for various professional careers. Tip was not to be classed with any of the above categories. He was born to be a leader among boys, and perhaps, as he gained the advantage of years, a leader among men.

The problem of the moment was how to retain this leadership of the gang, which had, up to this time, been unquestionably his. A new boy had moved into the neighborhood. New boys were an event. In the past they had always joined the gang, accepted Tip's authority and strengthened his fold. Not so with this particular new one. He paid no attention whatever to the others or to Tip, and if they had been non-existent he could have given them no less serious consideration than he seemed to at the present moment.

This was annoying. In any community the "gang" counts a good bit in the world of boys. It is a factor; it must be reckoned with. In ignoring the gang, this newcomer was not only insulting both his friends and himself, but also ignoring Tip's authority as the boy-leader of the neighborhood. Tip knew this and he did not propose that the newcomer should get away with it. It was obviously up to Tip to drive the stranger into line and thus assume himself of the permanent allegiance of the others.

"That new boy on the block," Tip had an idea and being a bit of a psychologist in his way, he knew how to handle the situation. "We don't want him to join our gang. When he comes to us and wants to get friendly, turn him down. You see, we've got something secret to do and we can't be trusting no feller we don't know."

In a second, the gang was all on edge. Secret plans were always bound to be exciting. When it came to plans, secret or otherwise, Tip was the champion planner of his time.

As was to be expected, some boy dropped the hint. Carelessly, he talked over to the new boy the next day and hinted at a deep, dark mystery. Things were brewing. The gang was going to pull something good and it was a shame that the new lad couldn't join them.

Up until this time, the newcomer had never suspected that Tip's was a secret organization. Now he knew that he was missing something secret, and secret things were bound to be worth while. Every time he saw the leader surrounded by his followers, they seemed to be plotting together.

Curiosity is a terrible thing. The new boy commenced to suffer. He began to look upon Tip as some sort of a glorified hero. When they chanced to meet, he made friendly advances. Finally, he confided that he would like to join the organization.

Of course, Tip was sorry they couldn't let him in. He hadn't been in the neighborhood long enough. The fellows didn't know him. He might spill the beans.

After several friendly talks, they finally came to terms. Tip explained that in order to assure the others of his good faith, it would be necessary for him to furnish a bond. A bond meant money. The newcomer had just passed a birthday and was the proud possessor of $2. Tip was afraid the sum wasn't enough.

At last, the deal was made. Tip took the money and told the new boy to meet the gang the next afternoon after school in his cellar. Then they would welcome him as one of them and tell him all.

Before welcoming the new arrival the next day the gang held a secret meeting. The situation was explained to them by their leader. They were rich. It was time to retire to the corner drug store and all have a soda. There would even be enough left over for some candy in the bargain.

Of course, the gang cheered Tip. A good time was had by all. It was with a more than friendly feeling that they went to welcome the new member into their ranks. Now, they would let him in on the mystery.

It seems that the treat was on him and he didn't know it. That was his initiation and their secret plan. He got the point at once. The next boy to come within their midst, should treat him in this way. After all was said and done, that ought to square it all around.

DRESSING YOUR TYPE

THE THIN GIRL AT NIGHT

Are you thin? Not just slim and svelte and graceful, but the kind of girl who drinks cream, eats butter and still looks like a lost lead pencil?

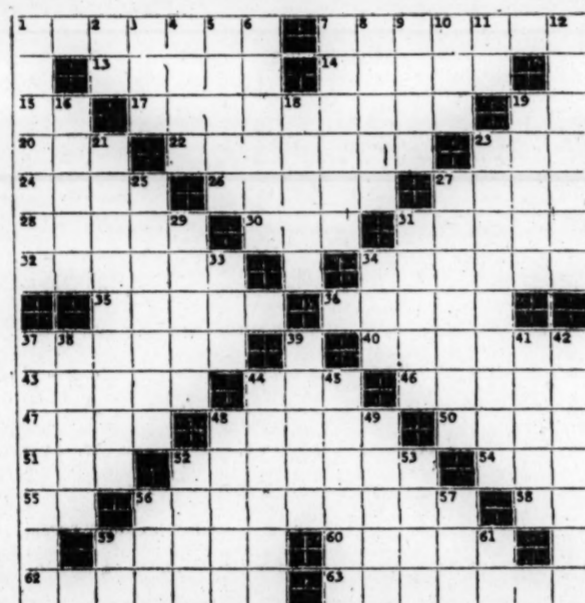

Then yours is the period frock. For it may have a high neck, and it must have a slender waist. So here you go, in ivory taffeta with a straight full skirt shirred to a sleeveless bodice. The front is cut in one piece and slashed to form the skirt—easiest thing in the world to make, and quite the loveliest for you to wear.

The transparent hem shows your nice slim silken legs that end in ivory satin slippers. The big sash bow would be too much for any one's else waist, but it looks all right at yours. Even the feather-boning that extends your skirt at the sides is an added touch to turn your thinness above to something graceful and miraculous.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matter of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

VITAMIN C AVERTS SCURVY

IN THEIR "brand new" book entitled "Food, Nutrition and Health," McCollum and Simmons quote an experience reported by Prof. Hopkins, of Cambridge.

It was noticed that a group of boys in a school were falling down in their work. While none of them were sick, they were lazy, peevish, listless, irritable and generally run down at the heels. Finally, a diagnosis of near-scurvy was made.

The school diet had enough calories, enough milk, bread and meat. Viewed from the ordinary standpoint, the diet was regarded as nutritious, sustaining, satisfying and wholesome.

But in closer analysis it was found that no greens, no salads and no fruits were served. There was no raw food. In previous years a raw fruit shop, located nearby, had supplied the deficiency. But this shop had been out of commission for several months. In consequence, the boys of the school were on the verge of scurvy—none of them with the classical signs, but all of them with some effects of lack of vitamin C, the substance which protects against scurvy.

There are a host of children here, there and everywhere who are suffering from the effects of near-scurvy. They need vitamin C, the substance which protects against scurvy. Cooking is hard on this vitamin. That is one reason for preferring certain raw fruits when choosing foods to protect against scurvy. Of these, none is superior to oranges.

At this season of the year nature helps to pull us out the near-scurvy. Radishes, onions, lettuce and berries are available and appealing. They can be had fresh, and freshness is even more necessary than rawness. When it comes to an abundance of this vitamin, cooked fresh vegetables contain more of it than old, stale, withered, raw ones.

Foods that are quickly cooked, at high temperature, contain more of it than foods cooked slowly. Foods that are cooked without soda contain more of it than those cooked with that chemical.

Since eating raw foods is apt to infect us with typhoid, or with worms, the question comes up: "Is there any way to cook foods without destroying their antiscorbutic vitamin?" Kolman and Eddy advise the following method:

Preliminary to cooking or canning, immerse the vegetables or other foods for several hours in a weak salt solution. The salt uses up the oxygen in the tissues of the fruit or vegetables, after which they can be cooked without destroying the vitamin C.

When food is canned, covered or sealed before being cooked, much vitamin C is lost. The principle is the same as that made use of when the food is slightly pickled before being cooked.

TREATMENT FOR COLIC

Mrs. J. C. H. writes: My 3-week-old baby has colic. At least, my physician says it's that, and that she will just have to outgrow it. I am afraid, if it is true, that I will be a nervous wreck before that time. For about 4 p. m. she begins to cry and I have no rest until morning. I seem to have plenty of milk; she is always ravenous and drinks any of the milk I give her—warm water, cascara, etc. Her bowels are open; she is gaining nicely, but her little feet draw up and I can not stop her crying. Isn't there some cure or help for both of us? I am careful of my diet, but nothing seems to help. I have even used a little paregoric in my desperation, but I realize I must not give her such things. What shall I do? Don't tell me to consult my doctor, for he has told me his opinion.

REPLY.

Babies stand colic remarkably well, but it is hard on the mother. As a rule, colic babies are well nourished, and the mother's milk is of good quality. In fact, that's where the trouble comes from. In some cases the treatment is easy—give the baby a little water at nursing time. Do not let him nurse long enough to fill his stomach, supply the remainder of the filling by giving sweetened water from a spoon. If this fails, give milk powder. Add enough water to make a paste. Feed this paste from a spoon.

The Gruel treatment for colic is as follows:

Fifteen grains of pure casein in a paste, placed on the tongue before each nursing, half teaspoonful of lactic milk, good active culture, three times a day.

There is an excellent chance for every mother to keep out of the colic marathon.

(Copyright, 1926, by Dr. W. A. Evans.)

HIS MOTHER

THE MOTHER OF H. GORDON

SELFIDGE.

MR. HARRY GORDON SELFIDGE is one of the most famous as well as biggest department store owners in the world. The great London establishment of Selfridge & Co., known to every tourist from every land, belongs to him, and previous to this ownership he was one of the partners of Marshall Field & Co., the gigantic American merchandising concern.

Yet he admits that all he has obtained and all he is not due to by his own efforts solely; whenever this question of his career comes up he plays the credit to his mother.

Selfridge was born in very poor circumstances and he and his mother had no one to support them but themselves. Mrs. Selfridge was a teacher, and every step her son made was done with her advice and often under her guidance. The merchant prince claims it was a partnership, and those who know intimately of his life heartily agree with him.

Paying tribute to this companion of his career, Mr. Selfridge said: "My mother is always thirsting for knowledge. At 90 she is as keenly alive as she was at 20. She always made it a rule that if a question came up which she could not answer she would immediately look it up. It is a hard rule, but a good one. If she did not know how to pronounce some unusual word she would be at the dictionary finding that word before the day was out; or, again, it might be some fact of history, or a book, or a poem, or an author, or, indeed, anything. She does not consider it disgraceful when a subject is brought up for the first time; but she takes it as absolutely disgraceful not to know it if the subject comes up again.

"She often said to me: 'The only way we can learn is by finding out what we don't know. An intelligent person ought to be curious about nearly everything; and any one who does not try to be intelligent must be very unhappy.'"

Beauty and You

A DIET FOR THE TRULY FAT

By Viola Paris.

SO many women write to tell me they aren't merely plump, but truly, terribly fat. And this makes getting smart, becoming clothes a difficulty that approaches the impossible. No ordinary mild reducing exercises seem to do any good. No leisurely business of dieting it away seems to make any impression on the excess weight.

A friend of mine was in such a case—too much bridge or motor-ing—and this is how she solved the problem. For three weeks she went on a diet that consisted of the following:

Breakfast—Fruit only, preferably citrus fruit; orange-juice, half a grapefruit, or any mixture of such fruits as she found palatable. Coffee, without cream or sugar.

Lunch—One glass of buttermilk or koumiss, to which vichy and a pinch of salt were added.

Dinner—the first real meal—oatmeal or lean fish portion; a salad or such vegetables as grow above the ground, succulent leafy vegetables; or the same type of vegetables served hot. Black coffee.

If you want to try such a diet but find it a little wearing, follow it for two weeks, give it up for a week, and then begin again. Of course it requires self-control. But think of the joy of looking and feeling chic once more!

Conduct and Common Sense

HOW TO LEAVE CARDS.

By Anne Singleton.

THE number of cards to be left in general visiting often puzzles people. The underlying idea, on formal occasions, is that women visit women, and men visit both men and women. When leaving cards, therefore, a woman leaves hers for whatever woman, or women, are in the house, and her father's or husband's, or brother's cards for both the men and the women of the family. For guests, if the card-leaver has been asked to some entertainment to meet them, or if she already knew them and also knew they were staying in the house, the procedure would be the same. Suppose you go to see Mrs. Brown, her unmarried daughter, and suppose you know that her married son and his wife are staying with her; you leave your card for Mrs. Brown, your card for Miss Brown, your card for young Mrs. John Brown, and you leave your husband's cards for him, too.

None of this exact and formal custom is necessary in informal places, or when you and your friends are not living in a socially ceremonious way. The question is often asked, "What shall I do when the door is opened by the lady whom I am visiting?" It is ridiculous to imagine the kind of formal visiting that requires cards in a place where a lady opens her door to you. You don't "visit" there or "leave cards," you go pleasantly to see each other.

Fountain Bathers Ignore Ornaments

New York, June 14 (By A. P.).

New York's "fountain bathers" will soon appear if the warm weather continues. They are little boys from the East Side who dive into the city fountains for coins thrown by the ever-present crowd of adult spectators. A city ordinance prohibits fountain bathing, but the park patrolmen as a rule turn their backs to the violation, and especially so if it is a very hot day.

Working Girl's Garb In Movie Is Imported

(By Associated Press.)

The work-a-day New York girl, glorified as "Subway Sadie" by First National, may be a different sort than is popularly conceived. At any rate, Dorothy Mackaill chooses a smart green and brocade ensemble with green hat to match, as one of her costumes. And it was imported. The price tag showed the hat alone cost $45.

Women's Health

Is protected and charm assured this NEW way of solving their oldest hygienic problem; true protection; discards like tissue

SCORES of women's disorders are largely traced today to old-time "sanitary pads," insecure and unsanitary.

Eight in 10 better-class women today employ "KOTEX."

Wear lightest gowns and frocks without a second thought, any day, anywhere.

NO LAUNDRY

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

Deodorizes. Ends ALL fear of offending.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." No embarrassment.

In fairness to yourself, try this new way. Costs only a few cents. Twelve in a package.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE HUMBLE TOILER.

His life knew naught of glory or renown. Humbly he lived and humbly passed away. Yet of his worth much more there is to say. For he is still remembered in his town. And those who knew him, passing up or down, Still speak of him as braver far than they. A gentle, kindly neighbor day by day. Whose soul was full of deserving of the crown. "Would I were like him," said a richer man. Would that my spirit were so fine and true: Gold I have gathered by my selfish plan. But he was loved by all he ever knew. Nor pomp nor pride the worth of man can stain. Oft in the humblest envied by the great.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi Didn't Fool Dad—Much!

By Jay V. Jay

Mitzi has a PLAN which she thinks should be introduced tactfully. That is why Dad is having his pipe and paper presented to him in this sweet, old-fashioned way. If Dad has a hunch he isn't saying anything except: "How charming you both look today," or something of that sort. So they do, too, Mitzi in a house dress of pongee with polka-dotted trimming and Polly (she is so domestic) in a house dress of striped tub silk. "Now for it," thinks Dad. "It must be something expensive!" Just how expensive Mitzi won't have the heart to tell him.

(All rights protected by The George Mathew Adams Service—Trade Mark Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

Aunt Sophia was so late in doing her share (bringing his slippers; that the subject has already been broached. It seems that Mitzi feels herself uneducated and, really, provincial. She hasn't had enough travel to broaden her mind. Doesn't Dad think a long trip, all over the country, would be of great value to her—to all of them in fact? What with Aunt Sophia also dressed for the part of the domestic siren (green and white linen) Dad isn't going to have a chance in the world to think anything at all.

2 CHILDREN ARTISTS FEATURE PROGRAM OF POST RADIO HOUR

Sylvia Altman, 13, and Her Brother Julian, 10, Give Music Recital.

MISS POE DESCRIBES
BIRTH OF "OLD GLORY"

James R. Armour, Jimmie
Holland and Humming Bird
Orchestra Appear.

Two child prodigies, Sylvia Altman, 13-year-old concert pianist, and her brother, Julian, 10-year-old violinist, were featured in the Washington Post's radio hour at Station WCAP last night.

The girl, a scholarship pupil of the Washington College of Music from which she will graduate soon, has played before Alfred Cortot and Josef Hoffman and has the technique of artists years older than her.

Plays Classic Music.

She played the first movement of Beethoven's "Sonata Pathétique" and Franz Liszt's "Dance of the Gnomes" with masterful skill. Her brother Julian, who played Huber's "Concertino," is a pupil of C. E. Christiani and is an able, young violinist.

Miss Altman, youngest graduate and honor student of Central High school this year, has been a student of music almost since infancy. She completed her four-year high school course in less than three years and was chosen a member of the national scholastic honor society of Phi Beta Kappa. At the Washington College of Music she received personal instruction from Weldon Carter.

Others on the Program.

Miss Elisabeth E. Poe, of The Post staff, told an interesting story of the birth of Old Glory to the children. James R. Armour, 10-year-old, sang popular compositions to his own accompaniment. His fellow entertainer was Jimmie Holland, tenor. Their program included "Let's Make Up," "Tell Her," "Hello Aloha, How Are You?" and "It's Too Late Now to Be Sorry."

Dolly Leishar's Humming Bird orchestra gave its final program for the season in connection with The Post's radio hour, playing well a group of dances.

REAL DRAMA OF PARIS

AT NATIONAL THEATER

"Seventh Heaven," Broadway Success, Goes Over Big in Hands of Players.

JOHN WARNER TRIUMPHS

There is a keen bit of theater in "Seventh Heaven," the play by Austin Strong, now holding forth on the boards at the National theater. As it is the wise father who knows his own son, it is also the shrewd producer who realizes what sort of drama the playgoer public likes. In selecting this particular play, Steven Cochran, manager of the National Players, hit upon a stock gem. It was not Helen Menken alone who kept "Seventh Heaven" two years on Broadway. Somewhere within its lines and situations there is the red meat of the old theater; a suggestion of melodrama here and there, and characterization that stands head and shoulders over most modern pieces.

John Warner, for once in his local career, takes hold of the lead part, Chico, and makes of it a living, breathing person; the first real acting the man has done since his debut before E street footlights. This alone suffices to put the stamp of approval on "Seventh Heaven." It brings Warner out of the doldrums. Other members of the National Players take the jumps admirably, with Charles Hampden standing out in one of the best bits of the season—Boul, the red nosed, wine bibbing, sneak thief cab driver.

Laid in Paris, "Seventh Heaven" glows with atmosphere. It is the story of Chico, a lost soul, denizen of the sewers and later street wading, who, through a series of friends Diane, a waif, sister to a worthless drug addict, Nana. Or, perhaps, it is the story of Diane and her love for Chico, the goodie; and at any rate, it all has to do with the salvation of two souls won away from the sewer and suicide by a quaint walk up six flights of steps into—seventh heaven, and marriage.

Back in the old days, when deep-dyed-in-the-wool melodrama flourished at the Academy of Music, now the Strand, audiences would have stood on the edges of their seats and cheered at one scene in "Seventh Heaven," had it been shown there, the moment when Leneta Lane, as Diane, takes a blacksnake whip away from her malicious sister, Nana, admirably played by Rhea Dively, and flogs her from the room. When Miss Lane takes the whip and holds it up, the whip goes after Miss Dively with just a trifle more sincerity, old Academy of Music days will be re-created.

Rather remarkable stage settings are in store for patrons of the National, the two sets every bit as good as those which served the great company in "Seventh Heaven" during the past season. All told, a presentation equal to anything done by the National Players in their two seasons here, with John Warner taking a new lease on life.

Petworth Citizens Plan Celebration

Plans for a spectacular Fourth of July celebration will be presented at a special meeting of the Petworth Citizens association tonight at Joppa hall, 4209 Ninth street northwest. All past presidents of the association are expected to attend and a general invitation is extended to the community at large.

A parade of fifteen floats and several hundred decorated automobiles is planned for the Fourth of July celebration. A bandstand is to be erected at Sherman circle, where children will be grouped, singing patriotic songs. Reading of the Declaration of Independence, invocation by the Rev. H. J. Smith, of the Petworth Baptist church, and tableaux will complete the program.

Duel Challenge Upheld

By Arbitration Court

Warsaw, June 14 (By A. P.). A duel between former Premier Count Skrzynski and Gen. Szeptycki, growing out of a quarrel over the recent coup d'etat in Poland, may be fought, notwithstanding efforts in certain quarters to prevent it.

When the question of a duel between them came up last week it was suggested that the quarrel be referred to a mutual court of arbitration. Now the court, of which former Premier Ponikowski is chairman, has ruled that Szeptycki was unjustified in refusing satisfaction to Count Skrzynski.

The court says Count Skrzynski's challenge was issued "in strict accordance with the code of honor" within 24 hours after the dispute, which occurred at Cracow. It is believed Count Skrzynski is ready to renew the challenge.

BRITISH NOTE TO SOVIET IS ONLY MILD PROTEST

Moscow Government Not Accused of Sending Aid to the Strikers.

London, June 14 (By A. P.).—Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary for foreign affairs, today gave the first official account of the British action toward Russia growing out of the dispatch of Russian funds to support the recent general strike in Great Britain. His explanation confirmed what has been a growing belief that the original unofficial accounts of the transaction were exaggerated.

The rather mild form of protest which the foreign secretary admitted having made in his note to Russia did not accuse the soviet government itself of providing the money, but only complained of relaxation in favor of the British strikers of the Russian law against the export of money.

Moreover, it is understood, the government hardly expects Russia to reply to its protest.

It is believed the real intention of the British note was, first, to please the strongly anti-Russian section of the government's supporters in the press and parliament, and second, in the hope that such a protest might deter the Russians from sending additional funds. For, although the amount of money the Russians forwarded to England would not give each of the strikers more than a few shillings, and thus could not do much to prolong the strike, the moral effect of money from abroad was to brace the men to hold out.

Moscow, June 14 (By A. P.). The general committee of the miners' union had transferred to the British miners' federation an additional 50,000 rubles (about $25,000), collected among the cooperative unions.

TWO HELD BY POLICE AFTER MAN'S DEATH

Suspects Deny Unidentified Victim Was Killed in Foul Play.

Two men, both colored, are held at the Third precinct station on a technical charge of investigation in connection with the death last night of the Emergency hospital of an unidentified white man, well-dressed, about 40 years old, who police said, died as the result of a fractured skull.

According to police, the man was found lying unconscious on the front lawn of the home at 921 Twenty-seventh street northwest, Silas Jefferson, 49 years old, living at the above address and Arthur Johnson, 20 years old, of 2418 Show court northwest, the two men arrested by police, said that the man fell off the porch, landing on his head.

Neighbors told police they first saw the man shortly after 8 o'clock last night, lying on the ground. He was rushed to the Emergency hospital in the Third precinct patrol, but died before regaining consciousness. Although neatly dressed, the man had no money or means of identification on his person. The coroner was notified.

EARL OF DUNRAVEN DIES; YACHTSMAN AND WRITER

Twice Failed in Efforts to Lift the America's Cup; Born in 1841.

HEADED IRISH SOCIETY

London, June 14 (By A. P.).—The Earl of Dunraven, one time challenger for the America's cup, famous yachting trophy held by the United States, died today.

The fourth Earl of Dunraven and Mount-Earl will be remembered best in the United States as the British challenger on two occasions for the America's cup. He was famous not only as a yachtsman, but also as an explorer, horse fancier, soldier, war correspondent and author, member of the house of lords and president of the Irish Reform association.

He came to the United States in 1893 with the Valkyrie II, designed by Watson, with the hope of lifting the America's cup. Valkyrie II was met by the Vigilant, designed and built by Nathaniel G. Herreshoff, of Bristol, R. I. Vigilant won the first 3 races out of 5.

In 1925 Lord Dunraven came with Valkyrie III, also by Watson, for another series of three out of five races. Herreshoff built Defender for a New York Yacht club syndicate, to defend the cup. In the first race Defender won by 3 minutes 49 seconds. In the second Valkyrie III fouled and crippled Defender. C. Oliver Iselin, in charge of Defender, protested and was allowed the race on the foul. In the third race Lord Dunraven withdrew, after making charges of unfair treatment. Until 1899 there were no contenders for the America's cup, until Sir Thomas Lipton entered the list.

The Earl of Dunraven was born February 12, 1841, and succeeded to the title upon the death of his father in 1871.

Among his writings are: "The Great Divide," "The Upper Yellowstone" (1874), "The Irish Question" (1880), "Self-Instruction in the Theory and Practice of Navigation" (1900), "The Legacy of Past Years" (1911), "Canadian Nights" (1914).

The earl married the daughter of Lord Charles Lennox Kerr in 1869. She died in 1916. They had one daughter, Lady Ardee.

Thaw With Mother On Her 83d Birthday

Pittsburgh, June 14 (By A. P.). Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, widely known through her philanthropy in the interest of charity and education, celebrated her eighty-third birthday at her home here today.

The observance, because of Mrs. Thaw's ill health, took the form of a reunion with her children, including Harry K. Thaw, in attendance. Last year, while attending church, Mrs. Thaw fell and sustained injuries from which she has never entirely recovered.

Peaceful Picketing Is Crime in Canada

Ottawa, Ont., June 14 (By A. P.). "Peaceful picketing is an offense in Canada under Section 81 of the criminal code, according to a decision returned by the supreme court of Canada today.

The judgment confirms a decision by the Alberta courts in convicting at fur one Henry, a member of the Red Deer Valley miners' union for peaceful picketing during a strike of employees of the Alberta Block Coal Co., at Drumheller, Alta., last June.

JERSEY PRIMARY TODAY FEATURED BY DRY ISSUE

Only One G. O. P. Candidate for House Supports Edge in Wet Stand.

Newark, June 14 (By A. P.).—The prohibition question received attention today as the primary campaign drew to its close because of a possibility that some action might be taken by the 1927 assembly.

One-third of the 93 Republican candidates for assembly were known to favor a referendum on the question.

The platform of Hudson county Democracy, from which all eleven members of that party in the 1926 assembly came, long has favored any move which might be construed as a blow at prohibition. Previous attempts of Democratic assemblymen to memorialize Congress for modification or reconsideration of the subject, have been balked by the Republicans.

United States Senator Edge's fight against prohibition found no New Jersey congressional candidate produced by Republicans to back it, aside from B. Duncan McClave of the Sixth district. Advocating modification of the Volstead act, McClave conducted an aggressive campaign against Representative Randolph Perkins, who declared "the Volstead act is here to stay."

Advocating a prohibition referendum and retention of the direct primary system, Mrs. Adeline A. Lawrence, wife of Circuit Court Judge Rufus V. Lawrence, today concluded her campaign for nomination to the State senate from Monmouth county. She is a Democrat and is opposed by James J. Hendrickson of Red Bank, a "bone-dry" Democrat.

In Essex county retirement from politics of Senator J. Harrison paved the way for a fight between the regular Republican organization and the Republican League of Independents. Joseph G. Wolber, the organization candidate, favors petitioning Congress for modification and former Senator Wilbur H. Parry, the independent, advocates a State referendum.

10 to Get $50,000,000 In Chancery 62 Years

Windsor, Ont., June 14 (By A. P.).—It is asserted that the $50,000,000 estate of James Dixon, the inventor and manufacturer of the famous Sheffield silver plate, is to be distributed after having been in chancery in England for 62 years.

Two residents of this city and John McLinden, of Wyandotte, Mich., are the only heirs whose identity is known here. It is declared, however, that lawyers have discovered eight other heirs, and that it is likely there will be an equal division of the millions.

It was in 1805 when James Dixon, a silversmith, of Sheffield, England, discovered the process of electroplating.

ATLANTA TRIP BEGUN BY JONES BROTHERS

Leave to Serve 2-Year Prison Terms for "Dry" Act Conspiracy.

Baltimore, June 14 (By A. P.).—Neufeld T. and Winfield Jones, convicted officials of the Maryland Drug & Chemical Co., started for Atlanta penitentiary today to serve two-year sentences for conspiracy to violate the Volstead act by illegal diversion of alcohol.

Departure of the brothers was halted last week because of crowded conditions at Atlanta.

Among other prisoners on the train with them was Walter M. Snyder, teller of the Baltimore branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, convicted of embezzling $7,200.

FOUR NEW BRIDGES LISTED FOR DISTRICT IN ENGINEER REPORT

$13,286,806 Asked by Department for Projects to July, 1928.

COMMISSIONERS LIKELY TO REDUCE THIS FIGURE

Kling Road, Rock Creek, New Chain and M Street Spans Planned.

Four new bridges are among the projects listed in the program of the District engineer department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928. The full program was made public yesterday, together with the appropriation needs of the department.

In a report submitted to Maj. Daniel Donovan, the District auditor, the various division heads of the engineering department have requested appropriations totaling $13,286,806. This is nearly 42 per cent more than the appropriation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1927. It is expected that these figures will be pared down when they reach the District commissioners. After that they will be subject to still further revision by the budget bureau and by Congress.

Kling Road Bridge.

The four bridges and the sums asked for their construction follow: A bridge to replace the Kling Road bridge, $250,000; a bridge to replace the Military road bridge over Rock Creek, $20,000; a bridge to replace the old Chain bridge, $350,000; a bridge to replace the present M Street bridge over Rock Creek, $240,000.

The surface division of the engineer department, which has charge of bridge construction as well as the improvement and repair of streets and roads, asked for a total appropriation of $5,502,707. This sum is to cover the salaries of employees, the surfacing and repair of streets, and for the repair and maintenance of bridges.

Other projects listed by this division are: For the removal of the canal span of the Aqueduct bridge and the construction of a recreation pier, $55,000; for the replacement of the roadway floor on the Highway bridge, $178,000; for the completion of what No. 6, $42,000; for the construction of a viaduct and bridge to carry Michigan avenue over the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Alabama Avenue Main.

The principal project in the program of the water department is the construction of two 12-inch water mains in Alabama avenue southeast, one from Fifteenth street to a point opposite the Garfield school and the other from Branch avenue to the District line. To carry out this project, a sum of $63,500 is asked. The total appropriation asked by the water department is $1,224,880.

The sewer division asks for $150,013. The one new project in its program is the construction of the upper Anacostia main interceptor along the Anacostia river between Benning road and the District line. To begin this work, it asks for an appropriation of $110,000.

The plumbing inspector asks for $111,880, and included in his program is the construction of a public convenience station at or near Wisconsin avenue and M street northwest. For this project, he asks $45,000.

The department of motor vehicles asks for an appropriation of $147,338, of which $25,000 is needed for the construction of a second-story addition to the present municipal garage building.

The electrical department asks for $1,080,320, which includes an item of $9,000 for the construction of an addition to its storehouse.

The supervisory city refuse requests $1,620,020 for the collection and disposal of refuse. A sum of $10,000 is asked for the acquisition of property in Virginia to be used by the District for the reduction of garbage.

The appropriation needs of other departments are as follows: Surveyor's office, $80,900; trees and parking, $118,580; inspector of buildings, $102,120; municipal architect's office, $55,520; office of chief clerk of the engineer department, $23,788; and for the maintenance of the District building, $98,740.

prosperity for themselves in 1926. They have already taken a taste from the cup of more profits, for during the first three months of 1926 they beat their former record for the same period (in 1925) by more than $26,000,000. For every dollar the roads made for them only $13,000,000 to $15,000,000 additional each month. In March the roads did even better in the way of establishing higher earnings. Their net income last March was upward of $21,000,000 in excess of what it was in March, 1925.

During the first six months of 1925, American railroads doing a business of $1,000,000 or more annually apiece, rolled up a record profit for the period of about $438,000,000. Figures for April were being compiled as this was written. Indications were that April would show at least as large an increase in net income as the first six months of 1925.

Under those circumstances, all signs point to the class 1 railroads earning a net profit of more than $500,000,000 during the first half of 1926. More likely it will run to $525,000,000. The figure will set a new high record for railroad earnings and either will indicate with but small error, the state of American industry generally.

Based on earnings for the first three months of the current year, the prospective profits of class 1 railroads this year, runs to about $1,300,000,000, which is mighty near all the law allows them to earn under the circumstances.

These figures, it should be borne in mind, cover the railroads as a whole. In the transportation industry, as elsewhere, however, prosperity has favorite roosting places. Not all the roads were prosperous; the latest statement shows that 26 first-class carriers out of about 200 showed a net profit, at all, in the first three months of the year. The remaining roads, in many cases, earned excess profits of varying size.

A continuation of railroad prosperity means a continuation of prosperity in American industry generally. For railroad profits are based on general prosperity. In hard times there are no railroad profits, save in the case of a handful of roads exceptionally located. In 1921 railroad profits vanished almost completely. In 1925 they soared to the highest figures ever recorded.

And in 1926, according to the views of the men owning and operating them, they are due to eclipse the 1925 record. (Copyright 1926, Current News Features, Inc.)

FEDERAL-AMERICAN CO. BUYS OLD BANK BUILDING

Acquires F Street Property
Formerly Occupied by Parent Institution.

LOCAL STOCKS STRONG

By F. W. PATTERSON.
The old building of the Federal-American National Bank, 1315-17 F street northwest, was yesterday sold to the Federal-American Co., the corporation organized a few months ago by officers and directors of the bank for the purpose of handling first and second trust loans on real estate, building loans, insurance, and such special financing as may commend itself to the corporation.

The bank received in part payment 8,000 shares of no par value common stock of the Federal-American Co., and by unanimous vote of the board of directors, a special dividend of these 8,000 shares of common stock has been declared payable to the stockholders of the Federal-American National Bank of record at the close of business today, on the basis of one share of the common stock of the Federal-American Co. for every two shares of the bank stock, according to announcement yesterday by John Poole, president. Certificates will be ready for delivery June 22.

First Dividend Paid.
The Federal-American Co. has declared its first quarterly dividend on the preferred stock at the rate of 6 per cent per annum payable July 1, for the 20-day period.

The new finance company whose authorized capital is $10,000,000, 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, par value $100, and 100,000 common stock no par value, has outstanding 6,000 shares of the preferred stock at $100 per share and 25,000 shares of the no par value common stock which was offered at $20 per share. These stocks, when offered, were heavily oversubscribed, requiring appointment of an allotment committee, whose work has just been completed and shares will be ready for distribution June 22. Directors have authorized the listing of the shares on the local exchange, and it is expected that the board of governors of the Washington Stock Exchange will be asked to admit the issues to trading.

Officers of the Federal-American Co. are: W. T. Gallier, chairman of the board; John Poole, president; William John Eynon and W. J. Waller, vice presidents; Charles B. Lyddane, secretary-treasurer, and Charles D. Boyer, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Local Stocks Open Strong.
The week opened on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday with prices uniformly strong and with several issues showing fractional gains to new levels.

Potomac Electric Power preferred, opening with a 1/2 point gain at 108 1/2, sold in two lots at that level. Washington Railway & Electric preferred was down a 1/2 point from Friday's close, with an odd lot of 7 shares changing hands at 82 1/2. Washington Gas Light maintained its recent level with all sales recorded at 68 1/2.

Peoples Drug Stores preferred advanced to 103 on sales of 50 shares, a net gain of 2 points over previous close. Merchants Transfer & Storage preferred gained to 101 1/2, while a single share of Mergenthaler Linotype brought 104 1/2. National Mortgage & Investment preferred was unchanged at 8 1/2, with 40 shares recorded sold.

There was somewhat more interest shown in bonds than is usually in evidence on opening day, and Capital Traction 5s sold up to 101. Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone 6s sold at par, Washington Railway & Electric 6s moved at 82, and the 6s at 103 1/2. Washington Gas Light 6s changed hands at 104 1/2 for the larger denomination and the smaller were recorded sold at 102 1/2.

Issue Quickly Subscribed.
Local offices of Alexander Brown & Sons, Harris, Forbes & Co., National City Co., Guaranty Company of New York, Lee, Higginson & Co. and Brown Bros. & Co. reported yesterday that there was marked interest in the $60,000,000 Federal Land Bank issue of 4 1/2 per cent bonds which their houses offered yesterday. It was reported last night that the entire issue was marketed within 75 minutes after the books opened, so that the local investors are speculating as to what will come to them when the allotments are made.

The offering of the Federal Land Bank was welcomed by investment bankers, as it will go far toward meeting the increasing demand for a obligation with the backing of the United States government, although it is not a direct issue of the Treasury. It was pointed out in the financial district that the decision of the Treasury not to float a loan at this time to provide funds with which to meet government maturities today is expected to stimulate the demand for Federal Land Bank bonds.

Savage in New England.
Francis M. Savage, president of the Central Savings Bank, is passing some time in New England, where he is making a survey of the Mutual Savings banks. He is now in Swampscott, Mass.

Financial Security

LIKE all the good things of life, economic independence is not to be enjoyed without initial effort and continued self-discipline. But financial security in the future is worth self-imposed thrift now, and the college boys and girls whose aims are high will, at the outset make a practice of banking something from their earnings.

Hundreds of Washington's successful men and women have "grown up" with this one-hundred-and-twelve-year-old bank, and you'll find "Metropolitan" service equally advantageous to you.

TOMORROW'S WASHINGTON

National Archives Building

The Government has long needed a permanent building in which to keep and preserve all the valuable records which are now stored in various places of questionable safety. And the new appropriation bill provides for the erection of such a building. And the site selected by the Public Buildings Commission is the square bounded by B and C, Twelfth and Thirteenth streets northwest.

Although it has taken the Government a long time to find a safe place for its records, it has not been so with the thousands of investors who have purchased First Mortgages through Swartzell, Rheem & Hensley Company. Through fifty-seven years their money has been kept safe and secure.

So, today, we offer you a secure place to invest your funds where they will return you 6 1/2%.

Southeastern Power & Light Company

Six Per Cent. Gold Debentures, Series A

Dated September 1, 1925

Due September 1, 2025

The Company will agree to pay interest without deduction for the normal Federal Income Tax up to but not exceeding 2% per annum. Pennsylvania Four Mills Tax and Massachusetts Income Tax not exceeding 6% per annum refundable upon application within sixty days after payment.

TRUSTEE: IRVING BANK-COLUMBIA TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK

From the letter of Mr. Thomas W. Martin, President of the Company, we summarize as follows:

Business and Territory

Southeastern Power & Light Company was incorporated in September, 1924, under the laws of Maine, succeeding to a business carried on since 1912. Through its subsidiaries the Company furnishes electric power and light service, either directly or at wholesale, in a territory comprising practically the entire State of Alabama, including Mobile, Montgomery, Birmingham and the important Birmingham industrial district; West Florida, including Pensacola and Panama City; eastern Mississippi, including the Gulf coast cities and Laurel, Meridian and Hattiesburg; and the northern half of the State of Georgia, including the City of Atlanta. Its territory in general and the Birmingham and Atlanta districts in particular affords a large and diversified market at reasonable rates for power produced by the Company's subsidiaries.

Purpose of Issue

Proceeds from the sale of these Gold Debentures will reimburse the Company for expenditures in connection with the acquisition of properties and will provide funds for other corporate purposes.

Consolidated Earnings

Earnings for the year ending April 30, 1926, applicable to interest charges of Southeastern Power & Light Company, were over 3.1 times annual interest requirements on the total Funded Debt of the Company, including this issue of Gold Debentures.

Equity

These Gold Debentures will be followed by Preferred Stock, Participating Preferred Stock, Common Stock and Option Warrants to purchase Common Stock at $50 per share, which at current market quotations indicate an equity in excess of $95,000,000.

Management

The management of the Company is in the hands of men who have been responsible for the development of its subsidiary and predecessor companies since their origin and who have had long and successful experience in the management of public utility properties.

All legal matters in connection with the issuance of these Debentures will be passed upon by Messrs. Winthrop & Stimson of New York and for the Company by Messrs. Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett of New York.

These Debentures are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of proceedings by counsel at 95 and accrued interest, to yield over 6.30%

DR. STREET AT LATONIA, IS COLLIER'S BEST WAGER

South Wind Favored at Canada

Mayberry Safest Bet at Aurora, Asserts Handicapper.

Lady Inez and Nulli Secundus Also Picked at Kentucky.

By BERT E. COLLIER.

From down at Death Valley comes the good word from the chief of staff that it is all over but the shouting in the sixth spasm. DR. STREET will be sent to the post in "high" and is going to hurl a wicked set of heels from the time he leaves the gate until he reaches the pagoda in front. Nulli secundus, another likely winner at Latonia, is MARY JANE, which is scheduled to strut her onions in the fourth race. This filly is just a trifle better than rated and "Call" Milan will have a good rider in the cockpit.

Out at Aurora, large fields will contend, but those fortunate enough to select a winner will be paid off at liberal odds. Looks like MAYBERRY is the safest proposition of the afternoon. This youngster was just cantering on Saturday and should have no trouble in repeating.

Over in Canada, the feature will bring a small field to the post. In this event, DR. STREET WIND should have no trouble in capturing the large end of the purse. AUCILLA is the only one he has to lead home, and this should not be a very difficult job.

Those who handle the split-second watches every morning send word that LADY INEZ will cop the closing event at Latonia. It is likely, however, that they are not hearing on the possibility of NULLI SECUNDUS' awakening. This one has been sleeping for a long time and probably old "Doc" Spencer will sprinkle the foo foo powder. Take the thing again closely before purchasing any tickets.

Shoot, rattle and roll.

NIGHT IS CHANGED.

W. R. C. Players Switch Night to Tuesday.

The WRC players, who have been offering a series of one-act plays weekly from station WRC, have changed their broadcasting night to Tuesday, and will be heard at 10 o'clock tonight from station WRC in a comedy by Hartley Manners, "Just as Well."

The WRC players have been augmented by the addition of Mrs. Maude Howell Smith, chairman of the dramatic committee of the Arts club and widely known for her work on the stage. She will assume her first role with the WRC players in tonight's presentation. The other two members of the cast for "Just as Well" will be Madge Tucker, director of the WRC players, and Denis Connell. The comedy will be broadcast, beginning at 10 o'clock. The musical portion of WRC's program will be headed by a concert by the United States Navy band, led by Lieut. Charles Benter, whose program at the Syriam theater will be broadcast by WRC and WJZ.

DISTRICT'S PRISONS DECLARED WELL RUN BY GRAND JURORS

Body Says Workhouse and Reformatory Are Modern in All Ways.

BARNARD AND AIDS PRAISED IN REPORT

Thorough Inspection of All Buildings Is Made by District Talesmen.

The workhouse at Occoquan, to which short-term prisoners are sent from the police and criminal courts, and the reformatory at Lorton, where prisoners serving long terms are sent, will soon rank among the best conducted penal institutions in the country, according to the report submitted to Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, of the District Supreme court, yesterday by the grand jury, of which Victor P. DeKnight is foreman.

The grand jury visited these institutions May 26, and the only thing lacking, according to the report, is money enough to enable these places to introduce certain improvements in industrial operations and thereby attain first rank.

The report conveys an impression just the opposite of that which resulted from recent visit by Representative Blanton, of Texas, during which Mr. Blanton gave vent to much criticism, both as to the manner in which M. M. Barnard, general superintendent, conducted himself and the business of overseeing these institutions and the conditions he said he found there.

The report in full is as follows: "May 26 the Federal grand jury for the April term visited the District workhouse at Occoquan, Va., and the reformatory at Lorton, Va. Believing you will be interested in learning the conclusions reached by the grand jury as a result of their visit to these institutions, we beg leave to state that upon arrival we were met by Messrs M. M. Barnard, A. C. Tawse, general superintendent of District of Columbia penal institutions, and superintendent of District of Columbia reformatory, respectively, who conducted us through the grounds and buildings of both institutions.

"At Occoquan we found most of the prisoners quartered in temporary frame buildings of long standing, but in excellent sanitary condition, the women's quarters, especially, being immaculately kept. This and the adjoining reformatory—Lorton—are not inclosed by any means to prevent escape, the prisoners being on the honor system, which gives them considerable freedom on the reservation. However, we found several prisoners who had been captured after escaping in leg irons, loosely fitting, with the clothing between the iron and leg. This does not interfere with the prisoners' walking and interfere very little, if any, with their movements while they are engaged in work, but does prevent running in an attempt to escape.

"On the whole we found the prisoners contented with their treatment hearing no complaints to the contrary and we learned from the inmates that the food was good and sufficient. At Lorton, where the long-term prisoners are sent, we found under course of construction a group of buildings of permanent character. These buildings are being constructed by the prisoners, the brick for which is made on the reservation. A central heating, lighting and cold-water plant is under construction, with a suitable space for commissary stores.

"All these buildings, which have been and are being erected by the inmates, incorporate the last word in completeness, and reflect great credit and foresight shown in the general scheme for handling these problems, both for the present and future.

"Both institutions are partially self-sustaining, a considerable amount of the food being produced on the farm. We found that, generally speaking, the discharged prisoners are well and physically in better condition than when brought to the institution.

"We found that the institutions are equipped with a considerable amount of machinery of various types for the manufacture of brooms, bricks, overalls and other garments. The bakery and kitchen are equipped with modern machinery, as is the laundry. There is a plumbing shop and electrical shop which, we are informed, would be enlarged as the needs of the institution required, and that a machine shop would be added as soon as circumstances would permit. We were interested in the discovery of a small printshop, where all the stationery used at the institution is printed.

fortunate in having two such men as Messrs. Barnard and Towse at the head of the District of Columbia workhouse and reformatory.

Petworth Bus Line Rerouted for Month

STABILITY OF EUROPE FORESEEN BY WINSTON

Undersecretary of Treasury Brings Good Report of Foreign Conditions.

Europe is on the road to economic stabilization, Gerard B. Winston, Undersecretary of the Treasury, declared yesterday upon his return from a five-week visit abroad. He said England had taken a long step forward by its "notable victory" in the recent labor dispute which involved a general strike.

"France is on the way to sound progress," he said, "and Italy also had a good future. Its government is good and its situation sound."

France must stabilize its currency before it reaches a really sound footing, Mr. Winston added, predicting that it would do this as soon as it had completely settled its external obligations, including those "with England and this country."

The Undersecretary was not certain, however, how soon the French parliament would act on the pending French-American debt settlement which is still before the American Senate.

CONDUIT ROAD SEEKS BETTER CAR SERVICE

Citizens Association Asks for Improvement During Non-Rush Hours.

A delegation from the Conduit Road Citizens association appeared at the District building yesterday afternoon and protested against the inadequate nonrush hour service on the Glen Echo and Cabin John lines of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

Maj. William E. R. Covell, assistant engineer commissioner assigned to the public utilities commission, heard the complaint and gave the Washington Railway & Electric Co. until Thursday to make answer.

The delegation consisted of Robert E. Adams, Everett Wallace, Charles A. Baker, James P. Cochran, William M. Clayton, Miss Mary E. Lazenby, Mrs. J. P. Cochran, Mrs. Eugene Burr, Mrs. James Drysdale, Miss Matilda Melsper and Mrs. H. L. Sherier.

Washington Is Third In Auto Deaths Cut

Washington ranks third in the seventeen cities of the United States, with a population of more than 100,000, reporting a reduction in the number of automobile fatalities, according to a statement issued yesterday by Charles M. Upham, managing director of the American Road Builders' association.

Last year the Capital reported 89 deaths, as compared to 104 the preceding year.

The statement places Pittsburgh first in the ranking, Los Angeles second, and San Francisco fourth. According to the statement, 30,400 persons were killed last year and $8,000 injured as a result of automobile mishaps throughout the world. Delegates of the association, representing all nations of the American continent, will hold their annual convention within a few months to discuss plans for safety of the highways.

New members last night brought the total to 1,200. The teams of Morris Garfinkle and Mrs. J. Kotz are still leading. The final meeting of the drive will be held tomorrow night. At that time two silver loving cups, donated by Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith and Louis Bush, will be presented to the winning captains.

President Surprises Bureau With Visit

(By the Associated Press.)

A surprise visit was paid to the veterans' bureau late yesterday by President Coolidge, his first to a department or agency of the executive branch of the government in more than a year, to inspect charts illustrating the bureau's activities which will be displayed at the Philadelphia sesquicentennial exposition.

The President went to the bureau, a block from the White House, in an automobile with Director Hines. He spent fifteen minutes examining the charts.

Cab Company Sued For $15,000 Damages

Charles J. Sloan, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Francis J. Hill, of this city, filed suits yesterday in equity court against the Black & White Taxicab Co. to recover a total of $15,000 damages for alleged personal injuries. The plaintiffs, through Attorneys Leahy & Sullivan, say that they were passengers in a cab June 14, 1923, when it collided with an automobile on Lincoln road northeast.

Miss Margaret L. Moore, executrix of the estate of her mother, Mrs. Alice L. Moore, deceased, 2721 Adams Mill road northwest, filed suit against the District to recover $10,000 damages for the death of her mother. Through Attorneys Newmyer & King the plaintiff says her mother was struck by a District truck on Porter street northwest, on July 8, 1925.

YESTERDAY HOTTEST DAY OF PRESENT YEAR

Mercury Climbs to 91, but Speedy Relief Is Coming.

The hot weather which Washington has experienced during the last two days will be superseded by a cool spell late tonight or tomorrow, according to an announcement by R. Hanson Weightman, forecaster at the weather bureau. Today will continue hot, Mr. Weightman stated.

Yesterday's brief thunder shower cooled the atmosphere only by several degrees, the temperature shortly thereafter resuming its recent high mark between 80 and 90 degrees. Nothing unusual in yesterday's heat record was seen by Mr. Weightman, although the thermometer yesterday afternoon registered 91 degrees, making it the hottest day this season.

The "break" in the hot weather is due from the Northwest, Mr. Weightman explained, and will prove a relief from the sweltering atmosphere of the last few days. Gradually descending to Washington from the upper Mississippi valley, the cool wave reached the city last night, and is due to be a welcome guest in the Capital late tonight or early tomorrow.

REV. JOHN J. WYNNE TO GET C. U. DEGREE

Catholic Editor Will Be Honored at Graduation Exercises Tomorrow.

The Rev. John J. Wynne, S. J., of New York, will be honored with the honorary degree of doctor of sacred theology at commencement exercises of the Catholic university, to be held tomorrow morning in the gymnasium at Brookland, it was announced last night.

Father Wynne is chief editor of the Catholic Encyclopedia and of the Universal Knowledge Foundation. He ranks among the foremost American Catholic writers. He has served successfully in many of the Jesuit colleges of the country, among them St. Francis Xavier college in New York, and Boston college. He was for many years editor of the Apostleship of Prayer, the messenger of the Sacred Heart, and America, a weekly review.

The degree will be conferred upon Father Wynne on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his entrance into the Society of Jesus. Members of the congressional delegation from New York and the Rev. Charles W. Lyons, S. J., president of Georgetown, will attend the exercises in honor of Father Wynne.

Marine Reservists Pass Through City

Five companies of Marine corps reservists passed through here yesterday on their way to training at Quantico, Va. The reservists from Philadelphia, who number two companies, Rochester, Boston and Detroit, were inspected at Union Station by Col. J. J. Mead, Maj. J. C. Fegan and Capt. J. J. Staley, Marine corps headquarters.

The reservists will occupy the barracks of the famous Sixth regiment for their next two weeks of training. Reservists from Detroit were welcomed by Representative Sosnowski, of Michigan, and American Red Cross workers served them coffee and doughnuts.

GRAND JURY INDICTS 6 JAIL MUTINEERS WHO TRIED ESCAPE

Assault Bill Found Against Sextette Who Hit Guard With Bar.

HAAG IS EXONERATED FOR SHOT AT HIS WIFE

Session Hands Down Charges Against Many Others Under Arrest.

The unsuccessful attempt on the part of a group of prisoners at the jail to batter their way to liberty June 4 resulted in the indictment of six alleged mutineers yesterday by the grand jury on charges of assault with intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon.

The defendants are Dennis Jackson, colored, under a life sentence for the murder of Robert Butler; Henry Valentine, alleged housebreaker, who is awaiting trial, and George Little, Horace Turner, alleged housebreaker; Amos Curtis and William Jasper.

According to the indictment the defendants assaulted Matthew S. Brangan, 55-year-old guard, with an iron bar. Jasper is alleged to have been the ringleader of the would-be jail breakers. He is under a sentence of three years for stealing an automobile. The iron bar was torn from one of the jail cots.

Paul Bradford was indicted on a charge of violating section 47, of the penal code, in connection with the alleged theft of a three-cylinder aeroplane motor, valued at $50, from Bolling field, February 27. This engine was stored in a hangar, which caught fire, ruining the engine. It was to be sold at public auction as junk, the records show.

Mayhem Indictment.
George W. Quigley, colored, was indicted on a charge of mayhem. He is alleged to have thrown a glass jar of whisky with force at John Jones, colored, April 25, as to cause Jones to lose an eye. According to the police, Jones accidentally spilled some whisky on Quigley's $85 suit of clothes and thereby angered Quigley.

The grand jury disagreed with the "idea" of Mrs. Irene Haag, of Cottage Hill northeast, that her husband, August Haag, from whom she was separated, was the person who shot her May 24 from a bush while she sat in a swing on the porch of her home. Haag was exonerated, although the police court held him responsible.

The grand jury also exonerated Ella Holmes, colored, 2407 snow court northwest, who was held on a charge of homicide in connection with the shooting of John Sherrill, also colored, on May 8 last. The names of other persons indicted, or exonerated, and the charges ignored or placed against them, will be found in the daily legal record of The Post.

Arnold Is Admitted To Practice of Law

Maj. Davis G. Arnold, national guardship officer of the veterans' bureau, was admitted to practice yesterday by the District Supreme court, sitting in general term. He is from Rhode Island.

Others added were Grovesboro H. Backus, of New York; Walter M. Evans, of Virginia; John F. Hayes, of Indiana; Albert E. Jones, of Wisconsin; Joseph L. Pierce, of Massachusetts; Frank J. Ready, Jr., of Tennessee; Albert H. Vestal, of Indiana; Adolphus W. Graupner, of California; Field Harris, of Kentucky, and W. F. Weigester, of Pennsylvania.

Mellon Files Demurrer In Alleged Libel Suit

Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, who was sued in circuit court for $300,000 damages for alleged libel by Walter Holland, an attorney, in connection with the disbarment of Holland from practice at the department, filed a demurrer to the suit yesterday through District Attorney Peyton Gordon and Assistant District Attorney Leo A. Rover.

Mr. Mellon declares that his actions were privileged, and that the regulations complained of by Holland are valid and hence acts done under these regulations are valid.

Short Circuit Stops Avenue Car Line

Street cars operated by the Capital Traction Co. on Pennsylvania avenue west of Nineteenth street were halted for about two hours early yesterday afternoon as the result of a short circuit. Other lines continued to function regularly.

Workmen were able to remedy the trouble before the rush hour, and crowds from the government offices and departments found the cars running as usual when they boarded them for their homes.
